RAY OF HOPE STILL IS LEFT FOR ACCORD IN IRELAND

Dail Eireann Meeting Expected To Hold War Dogs Tight

PRESS MODERATE

Dublin Papers Guarding Utterance Lest Peace Dove Take Flight

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug 15.—There is a strong disinclination both in Dublin and London to regard the situation arising out of communications between the British and Sinn Fein Governments as hopeless. It is expected that the Dail Eireann meeting tomorrow will be influenced by the universal feeling of relief in Ireland since the operation of the truce, and will hesitate to take a step which will again plunge the country into anarchy.

The comments of the Dublin press today are most moderate, being obviously inspired by a desire to say nothing likely to close the door upon further negotiations.

Dominion Premiers' Help Now Enlisted

London, July 15 (by mail).—The aid of the Dominion Premiers has been enlisted to bring about peace between Ulster and South Ireland. The Premiers are strongly in favor of an Irish settlement, their influence was probably brought to bear directly on Sir James Craig to impress upon him the absolute necessity of securing this settlement now in the interest of the British Empire.

Premier Massey of New Zealand, the Premier born an Ulsterman and a sympathiser with Orange pretensions, would probably be the only one likely to prove an obstacle but he is the least important of the Dominion group, even he has a powerful Irish party at home to consider. Premier Hughes of Australia, owing to his domestic quarrels with the Australian Irish is probably not enthusiastic, but he is not likely to take a strong hostile line against Mr. Lloyd George.

Eamon De Valera's second interview with Premier Lloyd George today was followed by a very significant gathering at No. 10 Downing Street. Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, arrived shortly after Mr. De Valera left, and after he had been for some time in private conference with Premier Lloyd George, the Dominion Premiers were summoned, and it is understood that they joined in the conference.

INDIA STICKS TO HER PART OF THE OPIUM BARGAIN

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 15.—In the House of Commons today Col. Sir Charles Yate (Unionist, Melton) asked what action was proposed by the Government of India regarding the export of opium from India owing to the failure of the Chinese Government to carry out its undertaking to put down the cultivation of opium.

Mr. Montagu, Secretary for India, replied that as the Chinese Government prohibited the import of opium to China in 1913, the Government of India was bound under the Hague Convention to prevent its export to China.

GREEK HELD FOR MURDER OF HIS RUSSIAN WIFE

Theo. V. Georgacopoulos To Face Trial For Recent Yangtszepoo Tragedy

Theo. V. Georgacopoulos, a Greek not recognised by the French Consulate-General, was held for trial on a charge of murder of his young Russian wife, Pelagueya, following the conclusion of the inquest held yesterday over the death of the woman before British Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Yui in the Mixed Court.

Mr. Langley Smith prosecuted while Mr. L. K. Kentwell was counsel for the accused. Detective Sergeant Gabbutt of the Yangtszepoo Police Station, Dr. James Murray and a number of Chinese police constables of Woosung, where the body was discovered on July 12 and other Chinese were called for the inquest, which lasted all day.

The body was found, it will be remembered, by Chinese police in the foreshores in Woosung on July 12. Foul play was suspected as the deceased appeared to have been strangled to death. The accused was arrested by Chinese constables and at a recent inquest it was thought that he was insane, and was sent to hospital.

Dr. James Murray was called yesterday morning and deposed that he had seen the body on July 12 to the right of Woosung Road. Her clothes were torn, her hair dishevelled. There were marks of discoloration on her neck, and decomposition had already set in. It was impossible to say whether the marks on the neck were due to bruises or decomposition. The body was taken to the mortuary for a post mortem examination. When he had seen it witness was sure that life had only left the body a few hours. It was a very hot day and decomposition would have been very rapid. It was possible that it the pressure causing strangulation had been kept up until after death, there would be no marks.

Chang Siao-ker testified that he had heard a queer noice in the morning from the edge of the bank and saw a foreigner standing over the body of the deceased. The man was holding the head of the woman and pressing it into the water below, witness said. Later, the foreigner saw him and his associates, and he ran towards a sampan to go across to Pootung.

D. S. Gabbutt said that on July 12 a telephone message was received from a Chinese police station, situated at the end of Ward Road, to the effect that a foreigner had been arrested by the Chinese police, and that the dead body of a foreign woman had been found in the country. Witness went to the station, and there saw Georgacopoulos, and was informed that he had been seen with the woman, and had tried to bolt in a sampan. The Chinese police had called the sampan coolie back, and the foreigner had made another bolt. He had been chased and arrested. Witness had left the man in custody, and went out into the country where the body was lying. This he found at the foot of a small dyke, lying in grass. The grass all around was trodden down,

The campaign ends in two months, and will be conducted by 20 different teams.

COMMEMORATE DEFENDERS OF LIEGE FORTS

Germans Try To Oust Scottish Dyes By Special Colors

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 15.—The president of the Scottish Dyes, Limited, of Glasgow, who has returned from a tour of India and the Colonies, says that German dyemakers are determined to exclude British dyestuffs. They have formed a strong combination which will exact exorbitant prices for special dyes unobtainable in Great Britain.

Vegetarian Monks, 5 Being Women, Suicide In Sea

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, August 10.—After living on a vegetarian diet for 10 years, ten Formosan Buddhists, five of whom were women, crossed over to the Pescadores and sought oblivion from the ills of this world, and life everlasting in the next, by casting themselves into the ocean. The bodies have not been recovered as yet.

HARDING IS ANXIOUS TO INVITE THE DOMINIONS

President's Wish Is Due To Hope That They Support Him?

LIMIT NOW SIX

Britain Would Have Two Delegates, Others One Man Each

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 16.—Reuter's Washington correspondent mentions the interest displayed in omcial quarters there as regards the direct partic.pation of the British Dominions at the Disarmament Conference. He says: "It is known that President Harding is personally anxious that the Dominions should play a full part as additional delegates to the representatives of Great Britain's interests.

"The Administration wishes to limit the various delegations to six members, in order to avoid unwieldy numbers, but the opinion is expressed that this would enable Great Britain to include two representatives, and Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa to send one each."

The opinion is expressed in London that the anxiety of Washington to welcome the Dominion delegates is probably due to the hope and expectation that their policies regarding Far Eastern questions will be found to accord with those of the Harding Cabinet.

Keeps Up Interest By Asking Views Of Many

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 13.—Mr. Yeh Kung-cho is said to be keeping alive the interest of public bodies in the forthcoming Pacific Conference by inviting an expression of views. As Chief of the Commission to study this question, Mr. Yeh is obtaining as much information as possible regarding all questions likely to come up for discussion, and owing to the absence of an agenda, a wide range of subjects must be prepared.

No official information can yet be obtained regarding China's representation, but it is believed that Dr. Yen will head the delegation, with Mr. T. K. C. Tyau, Minister Designate to Cuba, as its Chief Secretary.

Financiers Also May Confer On Exchange

Washington, Aug. 15.—The Treasury officials are considering the question of assembling an international congress of financiers—possibly to coincide with the Disarmament Conference—to discuss the stabilisation of foreign exchange.

MAY ASK RUSSIA TOO
(Dalta News Agency)

Harbin, August 11.—It is reported in local official circles that the program of the Pacific Conference will have to undergo certain changes. Industrial and commercial circles in America demand the abolishment of secret diplomacy and request that all the decisions of the Conference should be openly discussed. In addition to the official diplomatic representatives they demand the participation of business men in the Conference.

Certain powers insist upon inviting Soviet Russia and the Far Eastern Republic to the Conference. Without Russia's participation Far Eastern affairs cannot be settled. This is now understood in England where it is generally held that Russia should be invited to the Conference.

Bolsheviki May Run Opposition To Harding

London, August 16.—According to a Riga telegram, the Moscow papers report that the Bolshevists are considering a proposal to summon a Pacific conference in opposition to the one at Washington.

It is suggested that China, Mongolia, the Far Eastern Republic and the various Soviet States should take part in this conference in order to defend themselves against Japan, the United States, France and Great Britain.

The chief questions for discussion would be the conclusion of economic arrangements, including regulations for overland trade with Mongolia, and negotiations for handing over the Chinese Eastern Railway to China.

Final Scene In Yunnan Bandit's Career

HIS DYING WISH WAS PHOTOGRAPH SHOULD BE TAKEN

Yang Tien-fu Was Captor Of Dr. A. L. Shelton, American Medical Missionary

The remarkable photograph which is herewith reproduced with its prison setting in the final scene in the career of the famous Yunnan bandit, Yang Tien-fu, who became internationally known a little more than a year ago when he kidnapped Dr. A. L. Shelton, an American medical missionary. The photograph was made in the prison at Yunnanfu and a few minutes after it was taken the former bandit was executed.

After sentence of death had been passed upon him the single last wish that Yang Tien-fu expressed was that the photograph of himself and his wife might be taken. This is the first copy that has reached Shanghai.

Yang Tien-fu for years had been the terror of a broad stretch of country surrounding Yunnanfu at the time that he made a captive of the American medical missionary. After Doctor Shelton's release had been effected through the efforts of three Americans who led an expedition into the country of the bandits, the bandit chieftain won amnesty from Tang Chi-yao, then Tuchun of Yunnan, and was even given a command over Yunnan provincial troops with the rank of captain. The three Americans who went to Doctor Shelton's rescue were Mr. John P. Thornton, Standard Oil man stationed at Yunnanfu, Dr. Elliott I. Osgood, another American medical missionary, and Mr. Frederick A. Smith, who was then representing the Chicago Tribune in China.

When Tuchun Tang Chi-yao was overthrown some months ago Yang Tien-fu's fortunes declined. For many weeks he was under surveillance and the armed force he had commanded was taken from him. Then a few months ago he was charged with hatching a plot against Yunnan's military chieftain, Koo Ping-chen.

Yang Tien-fu sought to flee but he was overtaken by General Koo's forces and after a brief struggle in which Yang's wife was wounded, he was captured. The manner in which Yang's wife is garbed in the photograph is explained by the wounds she received. According to the records Yang Tien-fu was executed not for his offenses as a bandit, but for his activities against the Yunnan authorities.

Queer Noises Of Hawkers Proclaim Wares To Public

By Bruce Hopper

"CLICK—click, . . . cl'ck—click, . . . click-click-clack!" all day, all through the night, rain or shine, one hears the click-click tattoo of the split bamboo which is the mess call of the Chinese perambulating kitchen. Dining room, butler's pantry, stove, cooking utensils, kettles of rice, noodles and meat dumplings, spices, onions, bean sauce, pepper, garlic and eggs piping hot and ready for the chop sticks, all are carried by the vivandier who clicks his way about the streets of the native city twenty-four hours of every day in the year. Even the sleeping cool'e on the curb has food served in his bedroom without getting up.

To the newcomer the medley of hawker cries in Shanghai suggests a barnyard chorus, unintelligible, and meaningless. After a time he begins to sort out the fiddle-dee from the fiddle-dum and learns to recognise the more recurrent chants of the costermongers and venders of unconsidered trifles.

The real Bartholemew Fair of Shanghai is in the native city, where the hubbub and songs of the auctioneer minstrels fill the sound-heavy air. All the crying pedlars and chapman billies known to the western world are there, and many unknown to even Chicago or Paris.

The first sutler of delectables one is apt to meet in crossing Avenue Eduard VII. is the egg man, who carries a tray of shelled, hard-boiled eggs which have been soaked in bean sauce and tea leaves, giving the name "tea-leaved eggs" to his commodity. He does a flourishing business, selling an egg for a few cents, crying all the while:

"Zo-yi-deh, zo-yi-deh!"

Ordinary eggs, which does not necessarily imply those laid by the aboriginal hens of the Yangtsze, are peddled by Pootung men, who cry:

"Chi-day, yo-va-chi-day" (eggs, you want eggs).

While watching the eggs passed to customers one is startled by a clink-clank, clink-clank, close to his ear, and the coppersmith tinkles by, clinking his sounding pieces of brass by a swaying motion under the bamboo pole. He will pick locks, file keys, open trunks, or even safes for a small fee.

Following him is the porcelain mender, who pieces broken China together with brass cleats in a marvelous way. His cry is familiar:

"Po-o tse, ting wur!" which is to say, "Repair saucepans, mend bowls!"

All conditions of weather bring out the umbrella man who declares he can mend both foreign and Chinese umbrellas in his cry:

"Hsier yang san, hsier yu san!"

The squeaky rasp of a venerable treble indicates the slow approach of the Pootung crone, a real Gammer Gurton, who appeals to the crowd to buy her cotton thread and needles:

"Yang sio sien, yang sio sien!"

A deeper note is heard in early morning when the first blush of light meets the all-nighter going home. Instead of the milkman, as in other climes, he meets the breadman, generally an old man with a voice of basso profundo:

"Mien-po, mien-po!" is his call for everybody to buy bread while it is fresh.

The gamin who has the real fun with his merchandise is the watermelon boy. He stacks the fruit around a bench, and cuts the melons with yellow and pink flesh into pyramid shapes,

YOCHOW NOW GOAL OF WU; THAT TAKEN PLANS PEACE

Chao Hen-ti Ordered To Stop Fighting But His Troops Refuse To Obey

FIRE ON PAICHOW

Wang's Bandit Troops Loot Cities On Way To Wusueh

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hankow, August 16.—General Chao Heng-ti has been ordered from Peking to cease fighting, but the troops have refused to obey, and fighting is again proceeding. Three Chinese gunboats from Wuchang last night fired on Paichow, a place thirty miles up-river.

General Wu Pei-fu is endeavoring to attack and take Yochow. After his opponents have been driven out of Hupeh, it is reported that he will again attempt to make peace.

Thirteen thousand further troops are arriving at Hankow, being part of the Model Army.

Ex-Tuchun Wang Chuan-yuan's soldiers made their way to Tayeh and Hingkuochow which they looted. Then, crossing the river, they looted Hwangchow. They are expected to attack Wusueh in which district no troops have been left.

Situation Is In Hand Hsiao Tells Consuls

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 13.—General Hsiao Yao-nan has telegraphed to the Government announcing that he has taken over the Tuchunship of Hupeh. He has also notified the Consuls at Hankow that, notwithstanding the hostile attitude of General Chang Tso-ping, there is no need for anxiety, as he has the situation well in hand. In the event of General Chang, Tso-ping really making an attack it will be easily suppressed, he says.

General Chang's forces, according to a foreign official telegram from Hankow, have reached Sinti and announce their intention of occupying Wuchang. General Wu Pei-fu will have to decide between giving General Chang Tso-ping a post that will satisfy him or of smashing his army. It is believed in Peking that General Chang's threat against Wuchang is largely a bluff to secure favorable terms for surrender.

South Still Resolved On Fight With Peking

Peking, August 13.—A Canton telegram says that the Canton Parliament has resolved that a Southern expedition shall be sent against the North. In conversation with foreigners, however, a high official at Canton admitted that the expedition would not be carried out. The Parliamentary resolution is, therefore, looked upon as propaganda against the North, intended to influence the Central Government's position at the forthcoming Pacific Conference.

Tien To Take Place Of Tsao Kun Is Plan

Peking, August 13.—It is reported that General Tien Chung-yu, Tuchun of Shantung, will be transferred to Chihli and take over the post of Tuchun, now held by General Tsao Kun, and concurrently that of Vice-Inspecting Commissioner of Chihli, Shantung and Honan, rendered vacant by the promotion of General Wu Pei-fu. The same report says that Mr. Tsao Jui, Civil Governor of Chihli, will succeed General Tien as Tuchun of Shantung. This report is not confirmed in official circles.

Anfu Refugess Asked Again From Japanese

Peking, August 13.—Correspondence relating to the Anfuite refugees in the Japanese Legation Guard Compound is still passing between the Waichiaopu and the Japanese Legation. In its latest communications the Waichiaopu asks for the refugees to be handed over.

Problem Now Relief And Reconstruction

(China Press Correspondence)

Canton, August 9.—While the disarming of former followers of Kwangsi War Lord Lu Yung-ting in Nanning appeared easy, there was some difficulty for the Cantonese Army in the disbandment of Kwangsi soldiers in Liuchow and Kweilin, although both places finally have come under complete domination by the Constitutionalists.

The Canton leaders now have their hands full. Aside from suppressing the armed deserters of the former Kwangsi Army, who are now terrorising the undefended villagers, they have the problems of relief and reconstruction. Many towns in Kwangsi and Kwangtung where battles have been fought have suffered looting and destruction of property, and in some places it will take years to rebuild.

General Koo Pin-chen of Yunnan has joined General Chen Chiung-ming of Kwangtung in protesting against the Peking loan of 500,000,000 Francs from France for which Peking is reported to have offered as security the title-deeds tax collection to France for fifty years and the stamp duty, and also included railroad concessions in Yunnan, Kweichow, Kwangtung and Kwangsi.

Some Cantonese leaders are suspecting that foreign interests are all against them. The supply of arms and ammunition by Japanese ships and the service of Japanese ex-officers in the Kwangsi Army in its struggle with Kwangtung, the permission to Kwangsi agents to make their headquarters in Hongkong in the operation against Canton, and the advancing of further loans to Peking by France, all tend to intensify their suspicion of British, Japanese, and French interests in this part of the country.

FINISH NEW MINT

To meet the shortage of silver coins in Wuchow, Kwangsi, the military authorities of Kwangsi, now directed by the Cantonese, will complete the erection of the government mint there recently started by the Kwangsi folk themselves. The bank-notes of the Provincial Bank of Kwangtung are legal tender in Kwangsi, and more than $1,250,000 worth of paper money from Canton is being circulated on the market in the principal cities of Kwangsi. As the Canton paper money is well secured by cash, the Provincial Bank of Kwangtung notes are now being accepted with premium.

The politicians and former military officers of Kwangsi opposing the Kuomintang of the Nationalist Party under Dr. Sun Yat-sen are now busily organising themselves into cliques in order to oppose Dr. Ma Chun-wu, the Governor-designate appointed by Dr. Sun for Kwangsi. The grounds the Kuomintang opponents will employ in their arguments will be that the Governor should be appointed by the Kwangsi Provincial Assembly and that the policy of provincial autonomy includes the non-interference with one province's business by another.

Dr. Sun, however, claims his authority over the appointment according to the Constitution of the Republic under which he is the President; and until Kwangsi is able to manage her own affairs, the President will appoint her principal officials. Dr. Sun has expressed the hope that Kwangsi will soon be able to have a provincial constitution that her people may solve their own problems.

GOES TO MOSCOW

(Dalta News Agency)

Harbin, August 10.—It is reported in the local Japanese circles that the departure of General Takayanagi to Moscow has been definitely decided upon. General Takayanagi is to leave Vladivostok immediately after the Japanese authorities have settled the question with regard to the place for the start of negotiations with the representatives of the Far Eastern Republic.

General Takayanagi is now in communication with Mr. Matzusima, the Chief of the Japanese Diplomatic Mission, who is expected in Harbin, from which city he will leave for Port-Arthur to confer with the Commander-in-Chief of the Kwantung Province.

It is stated that some six officials will be attached to General Takayanagi's Mission in the capacity of counsellors and secretaries.

Greek Held For Murder Of Young Russian Wife

and there were signs of a struggle having taken place. A patch of tall reeds had been broken down, and the woman's feet were touching these. There were marks on her neck. A long knife had been found near the scene, and had been traced to a Japanese shop, whose proprietor remembered having sold it to a foreigner two days previously.

STATEMENT OF GREEK

The following is the statement of Georgacopoulos taken by Det.-Sergt. Gabbutt, at Yangtszepoo on July 12 and interpreted by Det.-Sergt. Schmidt:

"My name is Theodore V. Georgacopolous, aged 39. Two years ago I came to Shanghai with my wife from Vladivostok. I resided at 70 North Szechuen Road with my wife, Mrs. Frank keeps the house. I was engaged in the shipping of foodstuffs to Siberia. I have been unemployed about five months. My wife left me a week ago last Friday (July 1) because I could not afford to support her. I went to live at No. 20 Dixwell Road, and my wife went to the Women's Home, 18 Baikal Road.

"My wife's name is Pelagueya, native of Krasnoyarsk, Siberia, a Russian citizen, aged 28. I went to the Cottage at 8 a.m. today to see my wife, and I also saw her yesterday. Yesterday she asked me to come early this morning as she wanted me to help her, and told me if I was asked by the matron to tell her that her sister had arrived, and we were going to meet her. I arrived at 8 a.m. and gave my card to the lady in charge, but did not understand what was said to me, and my wife was allowed to come out. In the street my wife said: 'Thank God our position will improve now.' Then we took ricshas where the tramcars stop.

GO TO GET OPIUM

"Before taking the ricshas my wife told me that her sister and two other women would arrive this morning and would bring some opium with them. We went a long distance to where we saw a ricsha shed, and as the boys would take us no longer we changed into other ricshas. I am not acquainted with the district and do not know the names of the roads. The new boys took us to where the road ended, and we got out, paid them and asked them to wait. Then we walked along a back road for about 15 minutes. We wanted to get near the foreshore where the small boats were.

"I got angry, and asked her where she was leading me to. I wanted to return and she started to cry, and asked me why I would not help her sister, saying she had been in trouble and had been arrested. I then quietened her down and we proceeded further on. As the road was very bad I again stopped and remonstrated with her. She then got very excited and said: 'If you do not help me I will jump into the water and drown myself.' I told her she dare not do that—we were near the water front then—and she jumped into the water. I went in after her and pulled her out; the water was up to my knees. I quietened her down, and as I was very hot I took my jacket off and we both sat down. I succeeded in quietening her and gave her two dollars, which she placed in her handbag. I told her to go home, promising her I would go and look for her sister. I left her then, and going some distance further got a sampan. I went a little distance in the sampan to find the other party, when someone shouted to the sampan man, who turned into a creek.

WANTS HIS RING

"Before getting into the sampan I bargained with the coolie, showing him 20, 30 and 50 cents, which latter he accepted. I had to make signs with him as I cannot speak Chinese. It was two Chinese in civilian clothes who shouted to the sampan coolie to return. I got out and gradually a crowd of Chinese surrounded us, one of them making signs that I should take off the gold ring from my finger. I did not do so, but showed him my fist and walked away. The man who wanted my finger ring had very long finger nails.

"Then I was surrounded by four or five Chinese police in white uniforms who took me into custody. Two Chinese police escorted me to a house, put me inside and stood guard for about half-an-hour. I was taken from there by a Chinese policeman and another Chinese not in uniform to another house, where I was searched and all my belongings taken from me. I think the cause of my arrest was in connection with opium, thinking the other party had already been arrested. I have not seen my wife since, and am not aware that she is dead."

THEODORE V. GEORGACOPOULOS.

It was shown to the prisoner at the Police Station and he denied ever having seen it before. The result of the investigation was that this knife was bought from a Japanese general storekeeper at Woosung Road No. 157, on July 10 or 11. The detective went to the store on July 20 and made inquiry as to whether the knife was really bought there. The Japanese storekeeper stated that he remembered having sold that very same knife to a foreigner about 10 days ago and the prisoner was identified as the one who bought the knife.

At the Police Station before the sergeant of the desk, the prisoner was cautioned and explained to him that a charge of murder would be preferred against him. He made a statement which was interpreted to him in Russian. His statement was put in writing and signed before the witnesses in his presence, but after all it was found to be wholly incorrect.

The statement was then introduced and read in Court, while the testimony of Detective Sergeant Gabbutt was translated into Russian for the benefit of the accused. Chang Yu-sun and Ma Yung-fa then corroborated the evidence given by Chang Siao-ker.

Tien Liang-chen, tax collector of Northern Shanghai, told the Court that he had seen both the accused and the deceased rambling along Chunkung Road near Tsingkiang Road earlier in the morning and that, upon report of the three Chinese witnesses, he had gone to the scene and had seen the body of the woman, bearing marks of foul play. Witness further described that the accused was sent back in a sampan evidently because a large number of Chinese at the foreshore had yelled at the sampan man to bring him back. After landing, witness said, accused attempted to escape. He fled into a village. The lower part of his body was wet.

The afternoon session was devoted to the testimony of two Chinese policemen from the Fourth Station of the Fifth District, in Chapei, the sampan man, Chang Yen-ling, in whose boat the accused attempted to cross the Whangpoo and a Japanese shopkeeper at 157 Woosung Road, who stated that the accused had purchased a fish knife from him at $1.20.

A representative of the Women's Home at 57 Baikal Road identified the deceased as one of the inmate in the institution who had told her of her husband's cruelty and incapability to support her. The deceased was always afraid that she might be murdered by her husband sometime, witness said. However, when she left the house with her husband on the morning of the tragedy, she appeared to be very happy as she had informed witness that her sister had arrived in Shanghai.

A Russian boy testified to the effect that the accused had often quarreled with his wife while living at 277 Ichang Road and the deceased had occasion to run away from the house early in the morning in her night gown.

The Court then rendered judgment.

JAPAN NAMING DELEGATES TO AID IN COUNCIL

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, August 15.—Mr. Ijuin has been officially relieved of the Ambassadorship to Italy, and will be succeeded by Baron Kentaro Ochiai, Minister at the Hague. Baron Hayashi, Viscount Ishii and Mr. M. TAIYO MARU, HELD BY FOG, SAILING FOR U.S. TODAY

Silver State Also Departing—Hawkeye State Replaces Wenatchee On Run

Due to fog encountered off the mouth of the Yangtsze river by the steamer Taiyo Maru of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha the vessel which was scheduled to sail from Shanghai yesterday was delayed and is now scheduled to sail this afternoon. The tender with outbound passengers is to leave the Customs Jetty for the ship at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The tender from the ship with incoming passengers is expected to arrive at the jetty about 9:30 o'clock this morning.

The Taiyo Maru is bound for San Francisco by way of Japanese ports and Honolulu and is due to arrive in San Francisco on September 11. The steamer Silver State of the Admiral Line, whose departure also was delayed until today, is bound for Seattle by way of Japanese ports and is due to arrive at the Puget Sound port on September 3.

According to word received yesterday at the Shanghai office of the Admiral Line the company's steamer Wenatchee temporarily is being replaced on the run to the Far East by another Shipping Board passenger liner, the Hawkeye State, which is due to sail from Seattle on August 27 and will arrive in Shanghai about September 13.

On its homeward run, leaving Shanghai on October 4, the Hawkeye State is to go to San Francisco by way of Kobe, Yokohama and Honolulu. It is announced that this departure from the usual Admiral Line route to Seattle will be for this sailing of the Hawkeye State only. The vessel is due to arrive at Honolulu October 22 and at San Francisco October 27.

The Hawkeye State is a Shipping Board passenger liner of the 535-foot type and is practically a sister ship of the Silver State and Keystone State, possessing the same luxurious appointments and conveniences of these ships.

CHANG PLANS BIG GARRISONS FOR MONGOLIAN AREA

FRANCE SECURE DOES NOT FEAR PORT OF GENOA

No New Trade Rival For Her Marseilles With Its Promising Future

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, August 15.—An article in the Petit Journal shows the promising future that awaits France's great Mediterranean port of Marseilles, and claims that Italy's development of Genoa cannot hope to rival it. The article states that Marseilles has just added to its equipment 20 American cranes, viz., 16 of five tons' capacity, and four of 10 tons. As for dock accommodation, Marseilles, it is pointed out, has a great advantage over Genoa in not being limited in its power of expansion by the rocky formation which exists at the Italian port, so that she can extend her dock system westward as need requires.

Not content with deepening her modern docks, Marseilles is adding the President Wilson Dock (753 x 503 meters), which with its depth of 12 meters, is capable of taking the largest vessels. Further west there will eventually be added the Mirabeau Dock and the Estaque Dock, which will communicate direct with the Marseilles-Rhone Canal. On this canal rests the chief hope of this port, which aims not only at the remaining, the largest, port in France, but at becoming the leading port of the Continent. The canal links up the Mediterranean with the Lagoon of Berre, whose 15,000 hectares will be available in time of war as a haven of refuge against ships menaced by enemy torpedoes, and then joins up with Port de Bouc, near Arles.

This May Be Mystery Princess Now In Paris

KNOWN to her fellow passengers as the "Princess of Mystery," this young and pretty Russian woman arrived in San Francisco from Australia the other day. She formerly lived in Petrograd, she told inquirers, but refused to state the purpose of her visit to America. She is thought to be a Russian princess owing to the deference paid to her by other Russians on the ship. Her alleged unhappy if not tragic marriage, hinted at by the Russians, seems to have left little sadness in her countenance.

PRINCESS PAYS BOLSHEVIK HUGE SUM TO WED HER

Three Years In Prison, It Costs Twelve Millions For Wedded Liberty

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, August 15.—Princess Tatiana Kourakin has arrived in Paris after having been imprisoned for three years in Russia. She escaped by a ruse, going through a pretended marriage ceremony with a Bolshevik, for which she paid him 12,000,000 roubles.

Paris, August 15.—It is reported that Communist regiments are being despatched to the interior of Russia with orders to shoot starving peasantry who are trying to cross from one government to another.

According to a despatch from Riga, M. Litvinoff has advised the American Relief Commissioners that the Soviet Government will no allow any American who was in Russia during the revolution to accompany the relief organisations. It is contended that this measure is due to the fact that Americans who were in Russia at that time have seen and know too much, and could not be deceived by the Bolsheviks.

...ssiloff Men Shot After Imprisonment

Reval, August 15.—Advices from Archangel report that General Klenbovski and General Gutor, ex-members of Brusiloff's Executive War Council who had long been imprisoned, have now been shot, with 40 other officers and the wives of two officers who had fled from Russia.

LENIN'S 'VISIT' GIVEN OFFICIAL RUSSIAN DENIAL

As To Germans And Austrians In Council Session—Left To Council Says Premier

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, August 15.—According to a London message, Mr. Lloyd George, replying to a question in the House of Commons on the subject of the rumored approaching visit of Lenin to England, stated that an official denial of these reports had been published in Russia and that for himself he never dreamt of such a visit.

A member having asked whether the Council of the League of Nations would invite representatives of Germany and Poland to be present at its forthcoming discussion on Upper Silesia, the British Premier replied that the interested parties would undoubtedly be given every assistance in forwarding and defending their interests, but added that this was a matter that lay entirely in the hands of the League of Nations Council.

THIERRY TO HAVE GAMING CASINO

New Law, Which Drives Such Places Far From Paris, Sends One To Historic Spot

Paris, June 18.—Americans will read with mingled feelings that a gambling casino is about to be opened at Chateau-Thierry.

The spot where Uncle Sam's soldiers first proved their mettle and held the Germans across the bridge by the fire of machine guns may soon be the mecca of all the adventurers of Europe.

The casino is due to a law just passed by the Chamber of Deputies forbidding gambling houses within a hundred kilometers of Paris. This law closed the casino at Enghien and it is that establishment which it is intended to move to Chateau-Thierry.

D'Annunzio Stirs Up Trouble In Fiume

Incites His Followers To Prevent Turning Over Port Baross To The Jugo-Slavs

Fiume, July 1.—Captain Gabriele d'Annunzio's adherents are reorganising their forces into a contingent which will respond to any emergency which arises here. The war cry has gone out to former followers of the poet-soldier, and they are congregating here and have already organised a body called the "Service Triest," D'Annunzio has sent out a message to his Legionaries saying:

"This year is ours. It belongs to the Legionaries and the Arditi, and we again consecrate ourselves in one vast and solemn bond."

The obstinacy of political leaders inside the city prevents the constitutional Government from functioning, and control of affairs is in the hands of General Foschini, commander of Italian troops in Fiume. Reports that the port of Baross, between Fiume and Sussak, is to be separated from Fiume and ceded to Jugoslavia have increased the excitement here. Such a separation is being urged by the Jugoslavs, who are said to plan the extinction of Fiume as a port.

The Legionaries claim they will "save Fiume from being throttled by the loss of port Baross." All Fiuman parties contend that port Baross is an integral part of the port of Fiume, although the treaty of Rapallo ceded it to the Jugoslavs.

In his message to the Legionaries d'Annunzio said his Arditi had raised the flag of Italy above the port of Baross, "which my desperate men defended for sixteen months," adding: "Three fell dead, but the Legionaries have not lost honor nor hope. Let us swear today in one great throng."

There is much unrest in the city, and all party leaders have asked their followers not to carry arms in the streets, so that further bloodshed may be prevented. The funerals of seven men killed in recent fighting were held yesterday amid scenes of great solemnity.

America's Original Of Versailles Treaty Is Gone From Desk

Washington, July 15.—The original copy of the Treaty of Versailles furnished the United States seems to have vanished. Joseph P. Tumulty, who was President Wilson's private secretary, claims that he placed it in President Harding's desk at the time of the change of Administration, and from that point the record is blank. President Wilson refuses to enter into a discussion of the matter.

Although there are plenty of copies of the Treaty around, the original copy, with all its seals and signatures and wads of red tape, forms a part of the Government's records and can not be replaced.

and then helps the weather create a thirst in passers-by.

"Zoh bi la dien-kuh,
"Zeh di ma yi kwo yi" . . . he sings, "Down to the skin it's sweet, ten cash buys one piece one." Never were such melons offered to a palpitating public, if the vender is to be believed, so ripe, so juicy, so satisfying to the thirst.

The ever present chicken is to be seen, plucked or alive, in the basket of the hawker calling: "Dong-tse-chi!" Another frequent cry is "Dah-du-tsai," and investigation reveals a young stripling from Kashing toddling a huge basket or two of big headed cabbage.

Soochow men sell live turtles with a ceaseless shout, which sounds like: "Cho-ngh, cho-ngh!" Their other articles are lotus seeds and roots, and ginger sprouts, which are advertised musically as:

"Lien-boong-las-ngh-sio-nin-chian!"

The 'ting,' pause, 'ting,' pause, is the advance warning of the blind fortune teller who works a tiny gong and hammer in one hand, and will tell any one of his good or bad fate in the land of white lillies for a small fee.

The fan fare coming down the street is the troupe of minstrels, who sing of love, and war, and morals, after the manner of the sing-song girls. Behind them usually are the little girls selling jasmine blossoms for the pretty ones to wear in their hair, appealing as are all flower girls with their song:

"Bah-lai-hwa," the jasmine, or "Sze sien hwo," the fragrant narcissus.

A popular vender in Bartholemew Fair is the boy with the conges, which is flavored rice water. His call: "Kwei-ho-ba-dong-tso!" never fails to attract customers.

Then there are the Fukien men who peddle preserved olives, "Fukien ka-lai," and Soochow rivals who underbid them with olives of sandalwood flavor, calling: "Day shang ka-lai, mah ka-lai?" (sandalwood olives, you want buy olives?)

Hot chestnuts are as nutritious and wholesome in China as in France, and are roasted in sanded sugar that the nuts may be sweeter. On all festive occasions the chestnutman is supreme. But his cry of "Dong tsoo li tse" is not to be heard as much as in former years. His business is so prosperous that he is quitting the hawking trade, and setting up stands where the helter-skelter of Chinese records on a Columbia phonograph entices the public to buy chestnuts.

Many hawkers of doubtful trade are to be heard, such as the Changsha man who rubs two glass balls together to signify that he will buy counterfeit money. Next comes the man who stands anywhere along upper Nanking Road and expounds the durability, elegance, and up-to-date fashion of a basket of socks he is trying to get rid of at bankrupt prices.

The king of all hawkers in Shanghai is the candy seller, who either peddles a small tray of sweets to barter for pieces of old iron, brass, worn clothes, umbrellas or what not in the way of junk, or he sets up a small stand from which he entertains the crowd. The children and old folks, as well as the busy ones, gather round to hear the latest quips, witty stories and poems, current events, explanations of the typhoon, the war in Hupeh, and everything else on the calendar, entirely impromptu.

The comedy merchant clicks his three pieces of bamboo, and there is a rush to his stand like to a Punch and Judy show at home. He waits till the crowd is keyed up with interest in one of his yarns, and at the psychological moment begins to pass out bars of barley candy, which looks like molasses taffy. He advises the old women to soothe their daughters-in-law with sticks of barley brittle, to keep sweet with his beautiful, nourishing candy. When the crowd ceases to buy he begs them not to go away, but remain as his audience, for he has many tricks and stories yet to come. He is never without an interested, laughing crowd of children.

HELD AS SPY, MAN THREATENS TO SLAY OFFICIAL

Charged With Making Large Sums By Illicit Sales To Germany

RECEIVED PAY IN FRANCS

Notes, It Is Said, Were Stolen From Poilus After Their Capture

Paris, July 18.—Accusing Louis Loucheur, Minister for the Liberated Regions, of being responsible for his imprisonment, a man named Martinage, who is being held for trial on the charge of having dealt with the enemy, has sworn to take the Minister's life. When called before an examining magistrate recently Martinage asked permission to make a formal statement. Then with one hand on his heart and the other raised he declared:

"I am here solely because Loucheur willed it. Take warning that as soon as I leave prison—no matter what day of the year, season or hour—I will kill Loucheur."

The prisoner is a remarkably powerful specimen of physical manhood, and a shudder ran through those persons in the court room when he uttered his threat.

Martinage was a resident of Lille during the German occupation of that city, but was not wealthy. When the armistice was signed he came to Paris. Then he took a magnificent residence in Nice, carrying with him there his wife and seven children. His relations with the enemy were not suspected, however, until a German prisoner, asking he be repatriated denounced him before the Lille tribunal.

An examination of the records was said to have shown that Martinage's profits reached more than 4,000,000 francs, chiefly from the sale of blankets to Germany, for which he was said to have insisted on payment in French notes, which were taken from prisoners captured by the Germans on the western front.

M. Loucheur's friends are not worrying over Martinage's threat, however. They suggest that if the Minister has such power as Martinage declares he possesses M. Loucheur will certainly keep him behind bars.

RUSSIA BARS PRESIDENT OF U. S. MACHINISTS

Johnston Is Surprised To Be Refused Permission To Enter Territory

SOUGHT TO AID RUSSIANS

"My Interpretation Is That They Do Not Want Our Co-operation"

BY HERMAN BERNSTEIN

Berlin, June 16.—William H. Johnston, president of the International Machinists' Union of America, today received a wire from Riga definitely refusing him entry to Russian Soviet territory.

Johnston, who traveled with me to Riga, received assurances in New York and Riga that he would be admitted.

Many lodges of his organisation have adopted a resolution petitioning President Harding to restore free and unrestricted commercial exchange and traveling privileges to the Russian Republic.

TO AID PROSPERITY

They have declared such a measure necessary for resuming the trade relations that should exist between peaceful nations. They believe it necessary in order to restore employment and prosperity to our people and to likewise render a humane service to the sorely tried Russian people.

The resolution adopted by the International Machinists' Union, whose headquarters are in Washington, states that President Johnston, of the International Machinists, shall proceed to Russia to take the necessary measures on behalf of the 300,000 members to ask for contracts with the Soviet Government for manufacturing in America any machinery required by Russia.

Such contracts as were to be made by the International Union of Machinists were to be financed by the Soviet government either in gold or raw materials.

President Johnston's credentials stated specifically that he was instructed by the executive committee to proceed to Russia for the purpose of ascertaining how his organisation could co-operate with the Soviet government in establishing trade relations.

Johnston, who is one of the ablest labor union leaders in the United States, was clothed with full authority by his organisation to establish contractual relations. Commenting on the Soviet's action in barring him from Russia, Johnston said:

"I am dumbfounded. I cannot imagine what can be the reasons for refusing me admission since I came here with a desire to assist them, representing a large portion of American workmen and extending them our offer of co-operation.

'RUSSIA'S CONDITION SERIOU

"My interpretation is that they do not want our co-operation.

"There is nothing else for us to do. Russia's condition is apparently very serious, with the food shortage and demoralised transportation.

"We hoped to rehabilitate Russia's transportation system and supply the things the Russian people most need. I am sorry that our help is rejected."

AMERICAN AID OFFERED BUYERS OF LIVE STOCK

Consul-General Gets Notice Of Policy Adopted By Bureau At Washington

Mr. E. S. Cunningham, American Consul-General, has received information from the Department of Agriculture at Washington that this Department desires to assist in every way those who intend to buy in the United States pure bred live stock for breeding purposes.

For this purpose, the Bureau of Markets, Department of Agriculture, will give information and advice to foreign buyers without charge. The bureau is interested in maintaining a high standard in the class of live stock that is exported to foreign countries; and is prepared to place prospective buyers in touch with reliable breeders associations and others who realise the need and value of sending only the highest type of animals.

SCHOLARS HOUSE DOING BIG WORK FOR EDUCATION

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow (by mail), July 29.—The Helsingfors correspondent of the Moscow Isvestia quotes a statement made by Mr. Igelstrome, a trustee of Helsingfors University, who has recently returned from Petrograd:

"Thanks to the assistance and courtesy of the Soviet authorities we succeeded in coming into close contact with the Petrograd House of Scholars. We obtained the permission of the Soviet authorities to export books from Russia to Finnish and other libraries, and in return we shall supply the Petrograd scientific institutions with European scientific literature. We were heartily welcomed by the House of Scholars and were taken to the museums and theaters to see for ourselves that the legends about the destruction of art in Russia were false.

"I visited the Academy of Science, the Museums, the Hermitage, the Russian Museum, the Public Library, the Institute of History of Art, the House of Pushkin, and other places. I must state that all the art treasures kept in the Petrograd Museum are safe and well cared for. The Museums have become richer by receiving many new objects of art. The theaters are flourishing as never before.

"Scientific work is also carried on and valuable scientific works have appeared even during the period of the revolution. It is sufficient to refer to the books issued by the Committee for the study of the natural resources of Russia. There are a great number of scientific manuscripts not yet published.

"Due respect must be paid to these scholars who in this difficult time have not shirked from their duties as many others have done. The professers, like any other vital force, could not refrain from political activities. They now give their full support to the Committee for the improvement of the living conditions of the learned. They are not communists but are working in harmony with the Soviet Government.

"The scholars as a whole have slight regard for the Russian political emigres. They consider them marked forever as emigres, even if they eventually return to Russia."

9TH CAVALRY MAKE IT FOUR STRAIGHT BY WINNING OVER SHANGHAI YESTERDAY, 9-1

Visitors Touch Merrill Up For 14 Hits And Drive Him Out Of Box In Last Inning; Same Teams Play Again Today At 4:30 p.m.

The Ninth Cavalry made it four straight on their series of six with Shanghai yesterday afternoon by winning by a score of 9-1. They came from behind, after Shanghai had scored a one run lead in the fourth and was playing a tight game to hold the score at that. They earned two in the fifth on a walk and two hits, another in the sixth on a triple and a single, a fourth in the eighth on a homer, and got five more in the final frame by a series of errors, a wild pitch and two homers.

There is no alibi for Shanghai yesterday. The local men played their game and lost. They couldn't hit Thompson for runs, and they couldn't hold the Cavalry men. Merrill weakened along in the fifth inning, and had to throw them slower. He got a better break on his hooks with the changed pace and was still effective until the ninth when after four hits, including two home runs, he was yanked for Terry.

Shanghai had an excellent chance in the third inning to put over some runs. Bristow walked and stole second; and Sperry got on when Thompson booted his grounder. Bristow however was forced at third off Wilhoit's little grounder to Evans. Sperry and Cy then advanced a base each on a passed ball. There was but one out. Bills flied out to center and Glauque fanned.

Again in the fourth an opportunity came. All that was needed was a little timely hit. One run came over but that was all. Thompson was off control. He walked two. Pearson booted one. Sperry went safe when Merrill was thrown out at the plate by Thompson. With the bases still full Wilhoit fanned for the third out. That was the last chance Shanghai had. They never got a man past first after the fourth inning. They got but one hit in the latter five innings, and but four for the whole game.

Merrill started strong and effective. He fanned ten men. In the second inning he struck out the side, one, two, three. When his wing began to fail he used a slower delivery, smoking over only the third strike. He got by nicely until the ninth, when the Cavalrymen began to straighten his hooks out.

Lumkins singled to center and Smith fumbled it allowing an extra base. Savage drove one at Sperry in left. Sperry clean muffed it. Then Merrill threw one wild. Lumkins scored and Savage took third. Jordan singled to center scoring Savage. Martin drove one to left for a homer scoring Jordan ahead of him. Evans drove a deep one to right for a homer.

Merrill then was yanked. Terry got by easily, when Pearson flied to Sperry and Barnett and Rowlett were out in order Bills and Glauque to first.

The same teams play again this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

SAYS "BUGS" Baer:

DE COBRA TAMED BY GINK FOWLER

He Stopped A Bang To The Chin Then Did A Grecian Toe Dance

BY "BUGS" BAER

Dear Sir: Were you more journalist and sportsman and less of biased partisan you would tell the truth about Gink Fowler and my man, Arson de Cobra. This was an elemental conflict in which the primitive passions of gladiators held full sway.

They fell to battle under the unwritten code of Roughtown, "NO BITING EXCEPT IN CLINCHES." Arson won by a tooth.

Yours scientifically,
Dr. C. E. HARRIS,
Woodmen, Colorado.

Dr. Harris is just another of the one-way enthusiasts who can see nothing but their side of the picnic plate. This Arson de Cobra was a Mex who served with Francisco Villa and led the way in attacking menus, wine lists and pastry. He flittered into Roughtown chirping that he was a bad hombre and threatened to shoot the burg loose from its municipal charter. A man who looks for trouble can find it where it isn't. Roughtown tamed Arson, and tamed him pretty. He left town so fast that he passed himself coming in.

EVERY GUN WAS SINGING

When he pulled out his Bowie knife to start one of those Passaic bungalow parties, a dexterous Roughtown waitress put a slab of pie on it. Then things got rougher than a Hungarian wedding reception in Mahanoy City, Pennsylvania. Bang! Bang! Bang! Every revolver in Roughtown started to sing, and Arson realised that he had mixed too rich a mixture of oil into his conversation.

The big Rochester clothing manufacturers used to crochet a peculiar brand of clothes for the Roughtown men. Every suit had a thousand pockets in it.

And there were two guns in every pocket.

Now you tell one. Anyway, Arson and Gink climbed into the ring ready to die for glory. And to live if necessary. Each man weighed 200 pounds from his bunions to his toupee. There was 400 pounds of gooseflesh in the ring.

It was for France. Allons! Gink loosened one and let it lope from the floor to Arson's bright eyes. Arson fooled the experts by collecting the thump on his chin and then tore off a Grecian toe dance on his nose.

THE DUKE OF ALIBIS

He stayed on the canvas long enough to pay rent. When interviewed on the run he claimed that he was a detective. Also that two counterfeiters had set up a plant under the ring and that he went down to the floor to eavesdrop on 'em.

That was probably the duke of alibis. But it went, and Arson was given the keys to the Roughtown River and carte blanche on the flea caravans.

Jim Wilde Wants Too Much Money

Jimmy Wilde, modest little Jimmy, only wants the small sum of $35,000 to mingle in a championship match of fisticuffs for the world's flyweight title against Johnny Buff, the American boss of the little fellows.

The Welsh pugilist has made these demands of Tex Rickard. Tex thinks $35,000 is altogether too much money for one little fellow to have all at one time, and has passed Wilde up.

Georges And Jack May Fight Again

New York, July 16.—Notwithstanding defeat by Jack Dempsey in Jersey City on July 2, Georges Carpentier, it is reported in boxing circles here, will seek a return match for the championship, believing that by adopting an open style of battle he may be able to win.

In a statement made at his training camp after the Jersey City match Carpentier said he would fight any man in the world, excepting Dempsey, but his closest friends now say that he has changed his mind. Georges disobeyed the orders of his advisers and forced the fighting with the champion, and therein, it is claimed, he made his big mistake.

Should Georges again be matched with Dempsey and the bout held in New York State, where the boxing rules permit fifteen rounds to a decision, he might win the championship by outpointing Dempsey. Carpentier's friends believe that he is clever enough to box Dempsey and stay away for fifteen rounds.

Talks Of Buying Base Ball Club And Borrows $40

A story was sent out from Portland that Jack W. Kelly of San Francisco had practically closed a deal for the Portland ball club, while representing a wealthy oil man in Los Angeles. Judge McCredie now says that he made no deal with Kelly and that he does not want to sell the club.

It is further stated that Kelly borrowed $40 from the old Judge, so he could get to Los Angles to see his wealthy client. That is hard to believe, but maybe he did catch the old Scot off guard and put the bee on him. If he did, he's a wonder—nothing less.

Dempsey Denies The Yarn About His Getting Married

Hiram and Celia Dempsey's boy, Jack, heavy-weight champion prizefighter of the universe by grace of ability to take a punch and give one, is back on the Coast.

Within two minutes after stepping from his Pullman the champion spiked two reports that have been persistent for ten days or more.

Here's the way Dempsey spiked one canard:

"Doc Kearns is still my manager, and any story that he and I have split is the bunk. Nothing to it at all. He made me a champion and I'll never forget it. He stuck to me when the sledding was tough, and I won't forget that. You can just say there is no truth whatever in the rumor that Doc and I have parted company, that we intend to part company, or that we've even hinted at parting company. Doc can be my manager just as long as he likes the job. Is that plain?"

It was.

ANOTHER CANARD SPIKED

And here's how Dempsey spiked a second canard:

"This talk about me marrying a movie queen is just as much the bunk as the yarn about Kearns and I splitting. I am not engaged and have no immediate prospects. Of course, I expect to be married some day. If the right girl comes along and she likes me well enough and I like her well enough we'll get married, and that's all there's to it. Is that plain?"

It was.

"What are you going to do now, Jack?" Tommy Simpson, Oakland fight promoter, asked.

"You can search me," Dempsey replied. "There's nobody left to fight, is there? Carp is out of the question, isn't he? And the public would yell blue murder if I were matched with Gibbons, wouldn't it? And Brennan wouldn't be much of a card since the Misko thing, would be? I haven't any idea of future plans. That's all up to Doc Kearns. If Doc says motion pictures, it'll be motion pictures. If Doc says a swing around the country, it'll be a swing around the country. Maybe we'll go to Europe—maybe not. Doc is the doctor."

While waiting for Dempsey's train to pull in at the Sixteenth-street station a violent argument as to the Frenchman's punching ability arose between Tommy Simpson and a newspaper man.

"Well," Simpson said in conclusion, "we'll ask the champion about it."

DENIES BLOW HURT HIM

Honestly, fellows," Dempsey said he didn't hurt me with that right hand of his. Of course, I knew he hit me, but I give you my word, he didn't hurt me. He caught me off balance. Maybe it looked like he slowed me up. That was in the second round, you remember. "Well, when I came back to my corner, I thought Doc Kearns would go cuckoo.

"'He got to you that time!' Doc yelled.

"I said, 'Who got me?'

"Then Doc sure thought I was hurt. I had to laugh."

Two days of home life at Jack Kearns' home and Dempsey will be on his way to Los Angeles on business. Whether the business is motion pictures or not, Dempsey did not explain.

Ten days after his appearance in the ring at Jersey City, Dempsey remembers two things—the friends he has made and the enemies he has made.

"Met a wonderful lot of men who are friends now," Dempsey said, "and made a lot of enemies. Glad because of friendships and sorry for the enemies. I guess it all goes with being a champion. I hate crowds. All I want is to be left alone. I've got enough money saved up to last me and my family the rest of their lives, I guess. It's a great game, but I'd just as soon not go through the mill again."

Denies She Will Marry Jack Dempsey

Despite the emphatic denials of Miss Sylvia Joselpn, a scenario writer of Los Angeles, Dame Rumor is still spreading reports that Jack Dempsey and Miss Joselyn will be married in the near future. It was first reported that they were to be married immediately after the championship, whether Dempsey won or lost. "I know Mr. Dempsey and take an interest in his work and his career. That is all there is to it. I do not intend to marry him, either today, tomorrow or the next," said Miss Joselyn. Dempsey, when asked his version, said: "Nothing in it. What the lady says is right."

INTERPORT SWIM AT HONGKONG IS BEING ARRANGED

High Dive Probably Will Be Set At 12 Feet; Big Program In View

Details of the interport swimming matches to be held between Shanghai and Hongkong in the latter part of next month are being rapidly arranged by mail.

The high dive, it is expected will be reduced to 12 feet from platform to water's edge, on request of the Shanghai committee, because of the fact that local divers have no opportunity of diving from a higher plane than 10 feet.

The points in the team race and water polo, it is believed are to be set at one point per man. The program of events offered by the Hongkong committee has been found acceptable.

Shanghai expects to send a sizeable delegation to the matches, and is practising with a view to carrying off the swim.

ENGLAND DECLARES FIRST INNINGS WITH 403 FOR 8 WICKETS AGAINST AUSSIES

Mead With Score Of 182 Breaks Record For Runs Made By Englishman In Test Match; Best Batting Since 1886: Australia Take 162 For 3

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 15.—The weather was again dull today, when the last test match was resumed at the Oval, but the wicket had recovered, and was in excellent condition. The spectators numbered 20,000.

Mead (19) and Sandham (1) resumed the English first innings, which stood at 129 for four wickets when stumps were drawn on Saturday. A steady rate of scoring was maintained throughout the innings, despite the Australians' superb fielding, and the confident way in which the batsmen faced the Australian bowling made it look very ordinary. When the total had reached 403 for eight wickets, after six hours and 40 minutes' play in all, Tennyson applied the closure.

The principal feature of the day was the brilliant display of Mead, who carried out his bat for 182—the highest score made by any Englishman in a test match in England. (Note.—The previous record was W. G. Grace's 170 at the Oval in 1886.) Mead's hits included 20 fours, and he gave two chances. Tennyson was the only other batsman to reach 50. McDonald was the most successful bowler, taking five of the wickets for 143 runs.

The Prince of Wales and the Duke of York witnessed the closing stages of the innings, and stayed for an hour and a quarter.

The Australians had two hours and 35 minutes' batting before the close of play, and scored 162 for three wickets. Their innings was chiefly marked by a dashing partnership by Macartney and Andrews, who contributed 61 and 59, not out, respectively.

Your Health Comes First

Good Health is your most valuable asset;—its preservation should, therefore, receive your most careful consideration. An important point which should always be borne in mind is the fact that a great many forms of ill-health can be traced, directly or indirectly, to disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is wise, therefore, to keep these organs in healthy activity. When they show any signs of derangement let that reliable medicine, Beecham's Pills, be taken at once. Comments On The Game

It started out like a real ball game, with both teams putting up a fast and nifty performance. Merrill was a whirlwind the first few innings, retiring three in a row in the second, and keeping the hits down to a few scratches. Later on the sailor boy's souper began to tire, and from then on it was biff, bang and bingle.

Bills was a flash at short all day, some of his stops and throws being little short of marvelous. In the seventh he ran clear into left field to grab a high fly, and got the ball over his shoulder. It was for a third out, too. Twice he stopped hot ones back of third, and got his man both times. Number one cargo, that bird!

Bristow had but one real chance at second, but the way he handled it was refreshing. The ball was a slow roller, but the second sacker tore in for it, grabbing it just back of the pitcher's box and shot it to first in time to get his man.

Rosser covered more territory than a pig in a garden, leaping to both sides and into the air to grab erratic shoots. Nothing got past him, either. His game was all the more remarkable in view of the fact that on Monday he was at the park on a cane and with one foot encased in bandages and a carpet slipper.

Bristow pulled a baseball impossibility in the third. He slipped and partly fell while trying to steal second and was caught flat footed. Pearson, the visiting second sacker, took Martin's throw and was standing just off the bag waiting to touch him, but Bristow, determined to fight for it, made a headlong sprawl for the bag, and reached it, evading Pearson's stab for him by an eye lash. The bugs gasped when the ump flattened his palms, and as for Pearson, he probably thinks our "Helen" has some eel blood in him.

Dennison was out on the coaching lines all during the game, and remained hopeful even when Mr. and Mrs. Hope and all the little hopes had knocked off for the day. If our old friend "Mel" had been out there with the old verbal pep the two of them might have stretched that fourth inning rally a bit. We had three men on when the fireworks ceased.

It was an off day for Sperry and Smith in the outfield. The former let one pop out of his mitts, and on two occasions Smith fell while chasing ground balls, one of which got past him, making a three bagger out of what should have been a single.

Pearson, the visiting second baseman, was not up to his usual good game. In the fourth he let an easy one roll under him, which is a misdemeanor that bird is seldom guilty of. Ordinarily anything hit in Pearson's direction has about as much chance to escape as a hamper of fried chicken at an Afro-American church picnic.

The colored boys will travel a long way before they will find a fairer or more appreciative lot of fans than those in Shanghai. All their good plays are applauded and the one or two isolated attempts to direct rough stuff at them from the stands were promptly squelched by the gentlemanly and ladylike majority of onlookers. And the colored boys are responding by giving us the best they've got, with no let up or horse play, even when they are far in the lead.

If we could have a few teams like the Ninth Cavalry to oppose the Shanghai boys it wouldn't be long until our British cousins would be out there rooting with the best of them. Hundreds of them watch the games through, and when it is considered that few of them understand more than the bare fundamentals, and that practically none of them appreciate the finer points—the "inside stuff"—the tribute they pay the game by watching it so intently is all the more remarkable.

Oldest Church Usher Saved By Use Of Tobacco

Lively Reminiscences Of Col. Silliman Of The Episcopal Cathedral

New York, July 10.—In celebrating his ninetieth birthday on Monday, June 6, when he was the recipient of gifts from the ushers in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, Twenty-second Regiment veterans and from many other friends, Colonel James Richard Silliman said that he began his avocation of ushering seventy years ago and had kept it up, with slight intervals, ever since. One of these intervals was in 1863, when he took part in the battle of Gettysburg, as a member of the Twenty-second Regiment, then forming part of General Daniel E. Sickles's brigade.

A few days before Colonel Silliman's birthday, Bishop Manning attended a meeting of the ushers and other members of the Laymen's Club of the cathedral, when, in honor of Colonel Silliman's 90 years and his efficient aid at to many Sunday services, a large framed picture of the interior of the cathedral was presented to him. Colonel Silliman was credited at the time with being the oldest cathedral usher in the world, and it is probably quite safe to say that he is the oldest active usher in any church in the world.

To his early military training and his love of walking Colonel Silliman attributes a large part of the credit for the years of health with which he has been blessed. There is also one other contributory factor which, strange as it may seem to some ears, Colonel Silliman boldly and unblushingly says has been a real benefit to his health—tobacco. Noticing three or four cigar boxes on a table in his apartment, which the Colonel said were birthday gifts, the question of smoking was approached by one who interviewed him.

"I don't think I have ever abused the use of tobacco nor do I think it has abused me," said Colonel Silliman. "I begin smoking now, as has been my custom for many years, as soon as I get up in the morning and during the day there may occasionally be an interval of an hour when I am not smoking. No, I do not smoke many cigars a day, but I do love my pipe, and keep it going very faithfully."

At the suggestion that he had probably not begun the use of tobacco until he had reached manhood, a quizzical smile stole over the well-preserved features of the 90-year-old soldier and usher, and he said, with a chuckle:

"I have been using tobacco since I was 7 years of age." When his visitor recovered from this shock sufficiently to ask how that happened, Colonel Silliman said:

"An eminent New York physician for me prescribed chewing tobacco—in small quantities, of course—to help cure a peculiar affection of my stomach when I was 7 years of age. I used the tobacco and it cured me. I have no hesitancy in saying that tobacco has materially benefited me and I do not ever want to be without it. But I have recognised that chewing tobacco is not a very pleasant habit and is not as good form as was the case in my early days, so, on Good Friday last, I gave up chewing. I find I can get along very well with smoking."

On the subject of walking Colonel Silliman is as great an enthusiast as the former six-day champion, Edward Payson Weston.

"I consider it the best exercise in the world, both for men and women," he said. "I have always made it a point never to ride when I had sufficient time for walking. In my early days, when I lived in the Yorkville section, I used to take long walks across Manhattan Island to the Hudson River, where I used to spend several hours fishing. The greater part of upper Manhattan Island was a country region, and it is hard to recognise that during my lifetime so much that was formerly open fields is now solidly built up with towering apartment structures."

Colonel Silliman was born in Troy on June 6, 1831. He came to New York City at the age of 2 years and has resided here ever since. In early life he formed the lumber firm of Carrington and Silliman, which supplied all of the lumber for the building of the Crystal Palace in what is now Bryant Park. The palace was opened July 14, 1853.

"I treasure the memory of that scene of that opening and the fact that I was fortunate enough to get an excellent seat to hear Jenny Lind sing in her first American concert at Castle Garden on the evening of Sept. 7, 1850, as two of the greatest events in my life," he added. "I was also on the dock and saw the splendid reception given to Jenny Lind when she arrived here on the steamer Atlantic, early in September of that year. Those were great days for New York and the Jenny Lind crowds exceeded anything of the kind I had ever seen before."

As a wholesale lumber merchant Colonel Silliman was obliged to be absent from New York many times for long periods. It was while he was in Utica in 1851 that he first began to usher in a church. He has always been an Episcopalian and always ushered in churches of that denomination.

"I was only in Utica a few months," said Colonel Silliman, "and then was required to spend some time in Buffalo, where I became a member of St. Paul's Church, of which the Rev. Dr. J. Wesley Brown was rector. Dr. Brown a few years later came to New York as rector of St. Thoma's Church, and I attended that church in its old downtown quarters on Broadway, near Houston Street, and ushered there for many years. My duties as usher in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine began when services were started in the crypt of the building, about twenty years ago.

"Experiences in ushering! Yes, I have had my share of them, and some have been very funny. Many strangers are so anxious to have special seats, and you have no idea how many apparently well-bred churchgoers are anxious to beat the usher by changing their places when they think the ushers are not looking or are busy with others. Ushering is a great study of human nature, and I have discovered that the majority of churchgoers have their peculiar little human foibles just like all other folks.

Do I get tired standing up? No, not a bit. Recently I have only been attending one service; my wife thinks that is enough. But I get to the cathedral every Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock, and many a day I am standing continually until the service closes, about 12:30 o'clock. You see, often the church is so well filled that there are no seats in the rear for the ushers to sit down. I never try to make it easier by leaning up against the wall or a post; I always stand erect with my weight properly balanced on both feet. You do not tire half so quickly standing in that manner for a long time, as in leaning against something or putting most of the weight of the body on one foot for any length of time. My Military training, I guess, has taught me some of these tricks of how to stand and do it restfully."

Colonel Silliman has been twice married and his second wife is living. He has had twelve children, of whom eight grew to mature age, and he has one son and five daughters now living. Six of his grandsons were in the World War; three of them died in service, two on the battlefields of France.

The Colonel's grandfather was Brig. Gen. Gold Selleck Silliman, a native of Connecticut, who had command under Washington of a portion of the Connecticut forces in New York during and after the battle of Long Island. By clever military strategy, General Silliman brought his troops safely from the lower part of New York, where they were in great danger of being captured by the British after the latter had landed at Kip's Bay. He brought his command safely up along the Bloomingdale Road to Harlem, and many of them took part in the battle of Harlem Heights. General Silliman afterwards had charge of troops in Connecticut. He was captured by the British in 1779 and remained a prisoner under parole for a year until exchanged.

"During the Civil War," said Colonel Silliman, "my regiment, the Twenty-second, was part of the Army of the Potomac, and I was in many of the campaigns of General McClellan. Later, when General Meade was placed in command, I served under him at the battle of Gettysburg. Soon after that battle our regiment, then at Fredericksburg, was ordered back to New York to protect the city from draft riots which broke out early in July, 1863. My home then was in Eighty-second Street near Third Avenue, and the rioters, in view of the fact that I was in the army, invaded my house and drove out my wife and two young children. Some good friends prevailed upon the rioters to leave the house and, through their efforts, nothing was damaged. My wife and children found shelter with friends at Astoria. The worst of the riots was over when I got to the city, but I remember that a guard of eight soldiers, of which I was one, hid ourselves one night in an excavation near Third Avenue and Eighty-fourth Street, as it was rumored that the rioters were planning to burn a small wooden colored people's church then standing half a block away. The rioters did not appear, greatly to the disappointment of our corporal's guard."

Several years ago Colonel Silliman was President of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Bath, N. Y., and served on its Board of Trustees for many years.

"I presume," he was asked at the close of the birthday interview, "that you now indulge yourself with a long sleep in the morning and go early to bed?"

"I go to bed regularly at 12 o'clock every night," was the prompt reply. "Though I use spectacles, my eyesight is excellent and I sit up reading or playing cards, chiefly cribbage, which is my favorite game. Six to seven hours of sleep have always been sufficient for me, and at 7:30 o'clock I am up every morning. I retired from business four years ago, after having been actively engaged in trade and making my living for seventy-five years, to the very month. I still keep up my exercise of walking and there is not a pleasant day that I do not walk at least two or three miles."

Why Young Brides and Aged Husbands Can't Be Happy

Science Explains the Inexorable Laws of Nature Which Almost Certainly Doom to Misery the Mating of Youth and Old Age

THE recent wedding of Miss Cecil C. Ready, society girl, of Syracuse, N. Y., to Mr. George M. Oyster, millionaire financier and sportsman, of Washington, D. C., has attracted considerable attention in the newspapers. The bride is twenty-five years old and the bridegroom is seventy-two.

It was a romance that budded only last Fall at the Syracuse State Fair, where Mr. Oyster met Miss Ready. A special honeymoon train took the blushing bride and aged groom to Florida, where it was said that an entire floor of a hotel had been reserved for them, and that the rich and happy husband had promised his bride a thousand dollars a month "pin money." It is also stated that the grandfatherly husband has made a will, turning over practically all of his millions, except a few minor bequests, to his young bride. But will they be happy?

There is nothing in the marriage of Mr. Oyster and Miss Ready to suggest that it is clouded with anything but the most charming romance. Yet the question suggests itself—although not in this instance, but as a general proposition—whether marriages between what the poets call June and December are full of promise or full of almost certain unhappiness.

Dr. I. L. Nascher, the distinguished specialist on old age and author of "Geriatrics: The Diseases of Old Age and Their Treatment," has written an extremely interesting article on this page, showing why Science shakes its head at the mating of young brides and aged husbands. Dr. Nascher, in his application of science to this interesting question, seems to very largely agree with the popular notion which is very well expressed in the following stanzas from the well-known "A Bird in a Gilded Cage," written by Arthur J. Lamb:

The ballroom was filled with fashion's throng,
It shone with a thousand lights,
And there was a woman who passed along,
The fairest of all the sights.
A girl to her lover then softly sighed:
There's riches at her command;
But she married for wealth, not for love, he cried
Though she lives in a mansion grand.

CHORUS:

She's only a bird in a gilded cage,
A beautiful sight to see;
You may think she's happy and free from care—
She's not, though she seems to be.
'Tis sad when you think of her wasted life—
For youth cannot mate with age—
And her beauty was sold for an old man's gold;
She's a bird in a gilded cage.

ANOTHER June and December marriage! June, rich in youth, beauty, vigor, vivacity, ambition, hope, all that gives to youth its "joie de vivre," joins hands for life with December, old and cold, but with oodles of cash. No use asking why she does it.

There are a number of reasons why a young woman of twenty-five might marry a man nearly thrice her age, but there is only one generally accepted reason why she does. And for the one reason that she does, there are a dozen reasons why she shouldn't.

There are sentimental reasons which might explain away, practical reasons which could be overcome and physiological reasons which cannot be explained away nor overcome. Love, compatibility of temperament, similar tastes, mutual interests, may explain away the inevitable imputation of sordid, mercenary motives.

But everyone who has ever loved, and that includes about every normal, healthy man and woman, knows that he or she can never love a very much older person as a sweetheart. There is a natural deference to age which is an effectual bar to sentimental love and to that intimate familiarity which exists between lovers of the same age.

Questioning a number of women who had married men much older than themselves, I found that in almost every case the affection was based upon pity or sympathy, gratitude or obligation, deference or intellectual attraction, or prospective advantages. In not a single instance was there the love that is based upon mutual, spiritual, mental and physical attraction and longing.

Woman wants affection, the kiss from warm lips, the embrace from strong arms, the words of love from a manly voice. To these she can respond with her own love and affection. But the cold, thin, bloodless lips of the septuagenarian that are raised to hers to receive her kisses, create in her only disgust; the weak embrace from wasted arms that droop exhausted after the slightest effort, arouse perhaps pity but more likely scorn; the squeaky voice that tries to express what a young lover would say, brings only a hidden smile of ridicule.

There can be no love where there is disgust, scorn or ridicule. It is readily conceivable that a girl could love an old man as she would love her father, her guardian or a friend who has been kind to her; but for marital happiness and success there must be the mutual love that is expressed in the kiss, the embrace and the craving for each other's society and companionship. As this is impossible where there is a great disparity in ages, the marriage between June and December is foredoomed to failure.

Compatibility of temperament, similar tastes and mutual interests may hold such an ill-matched couple together, but compatibility of temperament in a couple, of which one is 75 and the other 25, is rare and unnatural. The man who has passed the biblical three score and ten is usually egotistical, boastful, exaggerating his previous achievements and present abilities, seeking admiration and praise and very susceptible to flattery.

It does not require any exceptional cleverness on the part of the woman to humor him, flatter him, make him believe that he is still a heart breaker, and that she is his particular victim. She makes concessions to his vanity, agrees with him in everything and makes his tastes and interests her own.

She may do this out of pure sympathy and pity, but a cruelly suspicious world will see therein only the insincerity and wiles of a designing woman.

This much is certain. The temperament, traits and peculiarities of the aged person are unnatural in the young, the old man cannot readily and will not willingly change his disposition or adapt himself to the ways and views of to-day, and the young woman who would be a persona grata in the eyes of the old man must make concessions and sacrifices to meet his views. And if the prize is big enough she generally makes them.

The young and the old may have similar tastes, but they have seldom the like ability or opportunity to gratify those tastes. With advancing years the mind becomes less receptive and retentive and brain fag sets in much more rapidly than in earlier life. The same attention that he formerly gave to a subject is now excessive and he falls asleep at the concert, lecture or sermon, not through inattention, but through excessive attention which causes brain fag.

For the same reason he falls asleep at the play which has a complicated plot, the circus, where several ring performances are going on at the same time, at the race track or athletic field, even at the game of cards. It requires an extraordinary effort to keep awake on such occasions and while the ancient Romeo will make such effort during his courting days, he relaxes soon after the bargain has been signed, sealed and delivered. Thereafter the young wife must either submit to the embarrassment and humiliation of having a snoring old man at her side in church or at the concert or theatre or forego these pleasures, or else go alone if her husband will permit her. But old husbands are notoriously suspicious of their young wives, especially when the latter want to go to places of amusement alone.

The tendency to sleep after slight mental or physical exertion is due to physiological changes that go on in the ageing body. The old muscles are more readily fatigued and require a much longer period of rest for their repair. The brain in old age becomes easily fatigued, even without conscious mental work, and finds rest in sleep. A young person can work and force himself to remain awake for 18, 20, even 24 hours at a stretch without distress or deleterious consequences.

The old person cannot keep awake for more than a few hours, unless he makes a strong effort to do so and if this effort is continued, mental confusion ensues. The old husband may be willing to make this effort occasionally, but it soon becomes an unwelcome task and the young wife finds that instead of having a congenial companion who will go with her to the ball, theatre or concert, she married a sleepy, old valetudinarian whom she must nurse and humor. This was the special grievance of every one of the young wives of old men whom I questioned.

Let me give a particular instance which was typical of all. The young wife was fond of dancing and before her marriage she went to dances once or twice a week. Her antiquated lover did not object to this, as it gave him the chance to rest up a couple of days each week and he showed her that he did not want to monopolize her company. I shall call this young woman "Pet," as, indeed, her aged husband called her.

After the honeymoon she was invited to a dance and "Daddy," as she called her husband, consented to go with her. He often boasted of his dancing ability, but this night his "feet ached him." His feet ached him every night, but he ascribed this to rheumatism, though he had been told that it was the stiffening of the joints due to age.

But old men who marry young wives don't want to believe that their ailments and infirmities are due to age; they knowingly deceive themselves. Well, "Daddy" went with his "Pet," but after the second dance he became tired and decided to go home. It wasn't fatigue alone that induced him to leave and take his wife away from the young men with whom she danced and smiled, but it was a reason to which she could not object. It was her last dance in years.

Shrunken, Tottering Old Age, with Squeaking Voice, Being Made Love to by Youth, as Portrayed in "Maytime."

"Daddy is tired at night and he doesn't want me to leave him" was her explanation, but the sigh that accompanied it betrayed the heartache, the longing for the jolly companions, the dance, the joy of life that she gave up when she married old December and his pile. Pet would have taken a chance to go to her mother's or to her friend on dance night, but she knew that Daddy, like all old daddies, was jealous and suspicious, unreasonable and obstinate.

Pet is thirty, Daddy is seventy-five. She is an old man's darling, with all the comforts that money can procure, all that a young woman needs to make her happy, except the ardent love of a manly lover and the freedom that the young wife of to-day demands.

A universal and inevitable cause of friction between a young wife and an old husband is their inability to harmonize her up-to-date and his old-fashioned views.

To his mind the good old days of his youth were good and righteous days, infinitely better than to-day. Because his mother did not smoke cigarettes, fifty years ago, is sufficient reason why the women of to-day should not smoke, and because his mother never tasted a Manhattan or a Martini, Bicardi Rum or Sloe Gin the modern woman must not taste them. He submits to public opinion and to the fashions and customs of to-day, but he does not approve of them.

So stubborn and set is he in his views that the young wife must employ all her charms instead of appealing to his reason to overcome his objection to her new stylish dress or the present mode of arranging her hair. She must plead illness when she wants to take a nip, but neither reason, pleas nor charms would avail to mollify him if he caught her smoking a cigarette. If it is not dresses and styles, there are social costumes, the drama, woman's emancipation from the thralldom of domestic drudgery and a thousand other things upon which their views are generations apart and which tend to make their married lives miserable.

The wife wants the husband to like what she likes, the same kind of work and the same kind of play, the same surroundings and the same food, the same friends and the same habits. But even if the old husband would want to submerge his likes and dislikes and adapt himself to hers, he is often physically unable to do so. The young wife might like to dance, skate, swim, climb, hike, row or take up calisthenics and she wants her husband to do the same, but the old man's joints are stiff, his muscles are wasted and exercise brings on palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath and rapid fatigue.

She is a hale, healthy, active young woman and likes good substantial meals and those delicacies which only a strong, healthy stomach can digest. But the falling out of the teeth in old age is nature's warning that the stomach is no longer able to digest foods that must be masticated, especially meats, and even if the missing teeth are replaced the stomach will not respond. For that reason the old man will prefer mush and milk to roast beef and quail on toast. And if he will succumb to her coaxing to join him at dinner and partake of her roast beef and pie, with olives, as relish and cheese on the side, he is in for a siege of indigestion that will make him grouchy and will make her sorry.

She probably never knew that physical activity helped digestion of certain foods like underdone meats, foods fried in vegetable oils, hard boiled eggs, etc., which constipated and distressed sedentary old persons; but hubby knows from experience what would give him trouble and he avoids such foods though they appeal to her. It would be ludicrous were it not pitiful, to watch old Daddy munching his piece of milk-soaked toast and baked apple while Pet sits opposite to him gorging herself on chops, gherkins, candy and chocolate. They keep house and the cook must prepare their meals separately, giving her double work and causing much waste.

When folks become old they become untidy and careless about themselves and their surroundings. Young wives of young husbands are proud of their hubbies and are glad to exhibit them; young wives of old husbands show their homes instead of their husbands. But when the old hubby defiles the home, leaving his clothes on the chairs, dropping cigar ashes on the floor, littering his desk, the mantle and the table with books, papers and letters, the young wife cannot be proud of even her home.

After a nuptual night that chills the soul of the young wife and converts the sweetest epithalamium into a wail of sorrow and regret, there come these differences and irritations, irremediable and accumulating, to plague them both. But, "How often does the smiling face conceal an aching heart, and oftentimes the merry jest a groan of anguish hides. So often do we, in our lives, but play the actor's part, and show a seeming happiness where misery abides."

A feature that is never considered by the young woman who contemplates marrying an old man is the expectancy of life of the two. The expectancy of life at 25 is 28 years; at 30 it is 34½ years; at 50 it is over twenty years; at 60 it is 13¾ years; at 70 it is 8½ years; at 75 it is 6¼ years. But the man who marries a young woman when he is 70 or 75 years of age will hardly live out his normal expectancy. The abnormal mental and physical stimulation will cause more rapid breakdown and death, for, as sometimes happens, his strenuous efforts to make himself an acceptable mate quickly exhaust the heart and cause death soon after marriage.

If, however, the old man lives his expectancy, the wife is doomed to widowhood in from six to eight years after her marriage. And then what? One woman married a man when she was twenty-six and he was seventy-two. He is now eighty-three and, to quote his own words, he is "still going strong."

If he should die to-morrow she would be a wealthy, childless widow of thirty-seven, but with spirit broken through the constant care and nursing of a crabbed old man who watched her suspiciously for eleven years or more; with the bitter knowledge that the day when youth was attractive to her and she was attractive to youth, had passed; that though she does marry again, there will never be again the love of her youthful fancy, the love she sacrificed for the prospective fortune.

I read part of this manuscript to Pet while we were seated in a beautiful apartment on Central Park West, then asked her if her married life was happy. She looked wistfully out of the window, then, suddenly pointing to a poorly dressed young couple pushing a baby carriage on the Park side, the young husband shelling peanuts which he put in his wife's mouth, she turned to me with a sigh and said, "There's your answer."

BERLIN ORGANISES TO SHIP TO RUSSIA

Hamburg - American Line Forms A New Company Jointly With The Soviet

PETROGRAD LINE TO START

First Cargoes Are Expected To Be Food—Monopolistic Privileges Conferred

BY CYRIL BROWN

Berlin, June 19.—Germany is leaping for the trade with Soviet Russia that is considered possible under the new Russo-German trade agreement. One of the first to get in on the ground floor is the Hamburg-American line.

According to a Hamburg dispatch to the Vossische Zeitung, the Hamburg-American line, participating equally in capital and profits with the Soviet Government, has organised a new subsidiary, the "German-Russian Transportation Company." This is stated on the authority of Director Huldermann of the line, who consummated the deal with the Soviet's commercial representatives in Berlin.

Two representatives of the Soviet commissariat for foreign trade will sit on the board and participate in the management along with Director Huldermann and Dr. Karl Melchior, Max Warburg's banking partner in Hamburg. According to Huldermann, the Hamburg line management seized the opportunity so as not to let the great future trade possibilities with Russia get away from Germany.

The Soviet Government has given the new German-Russian Transportation Company a monopoly for freight traffic to Soviet Russia. The company is to act as the Soviet's exclusive agent, securing bids and placing contracts for the transportation of goods bought by that Government.

The new corporation's activities are not to be confined to ocean traffic. Where the Soviet Government buys from a factory in Germany, the corporation will exclusively control the placing of the traffic to the port of shipment for Russia.

According to the same authority, the corporation will immediately take up traffic with Petrograd, opening a branch there, as the Soviet Government is anxious to revive Petrograd as a commercial port. The initial bulk of the traffic is expected to be foodstuffs for the Petrograd populace. Food for the Petrograd dock workers is to be sent at once by every steamer.

It is said that the Soviet representatives have given assurances that there will be a mine free channel to Petrograd properly marked and with pilots available; further, that there will be available in Petrograd docks which will permit tight to ten ships of 3,000 to 4,000 tons to discharge simultaneously. Lastly the Soviet Government guarantees the safety of the German crews, though sternly forbidding smuggling.

Manager Laurillard To Join Marc Klaw

Quits Grossmith, His Partner For Twenty Pears, For New Relationship

London, June 11.—The theatrical firm of Laurillard & Grossmith has dissolved partnership. Laurillard will join Marc Klaw in a new Anglo-American combination dealing in what would be called an arbitrage business—trading in English and American plays.

Laurillard's severance from the firm is complete, as he is resigning as director and retiring from the office, although for a time the Gaiety and Adelphi theaters will remain under his control, while Grossmith's immediate concern will be the Winter Garden. Laurillard has been active in theatrical circles all his life and has been associated with Grossmith for twenty years. He is one of the pioneers of the cinema theater de luxe and has run almost every kind of a stage entertainment.

GETS PERMISSION TO BUY RICE TO RELIEVE FAMINE

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 13.—The Kweichow Famine Relief Association has asked the Ministry of Commerce and Agriculture to permit Mr. Hsu Wei-fan, Chancellor of that Ministry, to purchase rice in the Changteh district for transportation to the Tungjen and Chiangkow districts of Kweichow, where the famine is most acute. The Ministry has decided to comply with the request.

Poker Raids By Bobbies Stir Discontent In Commons

Curzon Tips Knowledge Of Game By Quizzing Home Secretary As To Why Great American Pastime Is Object Of Police Activity

London, June 18.—The great American game of poker has found many stanch supporters in England as the result of a police raid on a club, where they found the chairman, who happened to be E. Phillips Oppenheim, the author. Almost everybody who can shuffle a deck of cards has written letters to the Times complaining about the so-called atrocious cheating of the rights of free people and the spirited agitation carries a warning to gullible visiting Americans who think that the British can't play poker.

The climax came this week in the House of Commons, when no less dignified a person than Viscount Curzon, whose many friends were not aware he knew the difference between a busted straight and an ace full, threw his oratorical chips into the pot, calling the Home Secretary by asking whether "the action taken by the metropolitan police against individuals who play the game of poker is being taken universally all over the country, and if such action is being taken, why is the game of poker singled out? Why is similar action not taken against individuals who play other card games such as old maid, beggar my neighbor and bridge? Is action contemplated against those who indulge in these unsafe and demoralising games of chance?"

The Home Secretary explained the law, and added: "The suggestion contained in the latter part of the question will receive appropriate consideration." But the uproar and laughter in the House sounded as if Lord Curzon and the vast army of his followers who like an occasional draw will be hard to bluff in the future.

New Machine Will Fire Grenades More Than Mile

Half Pound Missile Invented By Rumanian Can Be Affixed To Rifle—Manufacture Of Appliance May Be Started In U. S.

Paris, June 11.—When war again appears on the world's horizon soldiers in trenches or in the air will not fire rifle bullets at the enemy but will be able to discharge half pound or pound grenades for a distance of a mile or two from an ordinary rifle equipped with a light recoil apparatus, according to military experts. They say this has been completely demonstrated by Sava Rogoza, a Rumanian inventor and engineer. M. Rogoza is now negotiating with several Governments in connection with the use by them of his discovery, and, according to army men, had his invention been finished early in the great war it would have stopped the Prussian masses within a month.

When they were first told of the inventor's ideas his French associates laughed and threatened to send him to an asylum for the insane, but finally affected perhaps by his enthusiasm, granted him a small monthly allowance with which to purchase materials. Last month on the plains outside Paris M. Rogoza fitted his invention to a French army rifle. The spectators remained a quarter of a mile away, expecting to witness a tragedy. Instead, the grenades' course through the air could be distinctly traced, while they landed far beyond the point they were expected to strike and exploded with terrific force.

Since then M. Rogoza has passed much time perfecting a distance gauging apparatus which will enable him to fire a high explosive without greater error than is found in any machine-gun.

M. Rogoza has refused to hand over the rights to his invention to any one government, but is considering its manufacture in the United States and the distribution of the appliance from there to any nation.

President Urges Young Men Attend U.S. Training Camps

Harding Hopes To Establish Arrangements For Training 100,000 Men Each Year During Administration

Washington, June 25.—Harding urges every young man who can possibly arrange to do so to attend one of the citizens' military training camps to be conducted by the War Department this summer. In a statement made public he expressed the hope that during his Administration arrangements would be completed for giving military training to at least 100,000 young men each year.

The text of the statement said: "I hope every young man who can arrange it will attend one of the citizens' military training camps to be conducted this Summer by the War Department in each of the nine army corps areas.

"In this way he will increase his worth to the nation and obtain individual benefits of priceless value to himself and to the community in which he lives.

"I hope to see established during my Administration a comprehensive system of voluntary military training for at least 100,000 men each year. Every young man who is willing to prepare himself for the defense of his country should be given an opportunity to do so.

"Our present National Defense law established an economical and democratic military policy thoroughly consistent with our national traditions. It provides for a small regular army, to be augmented by great citizen forces in the event of national military policy. But whereas in the past these larger war forces have been extemporised after the occurrence of an emergency, the new law wisely provides that the framework of their organisation shall be established and developed in time of peace, in so far as this is practicable, through the voluntary service of our patriotic young men.

"The army of the United States, as defined in the new law, comprises the regular army, the National Guard and the organised reserves. Every patriotic citizen should encourage the development of these forces, each within its proper sphere."

Muratore Is Critic Of Consular Service

Paris, June 11.—Lucien Muratore of the Chicago Opera Company is the latest critic of the French consular regime in the United States. In an interview given on his arrival here Muratore said that French propaganda in the United States would win more friends if French artists would be better treated by French consuls, the latter having the idea, the singer says, that France's war victories are sufficient to gain America's friendship.

"Our consuls surprise all who come in touch with them," he said. "You would expect to find a little corner of France in the Consulates, but not at all. In the first place many consuls are unknown and do not even figure in the telephone directories. It is impossible to get information from a French consulate, and in America a country is judged by its representatives. Therefore across the Atlantic it is not enough for France to be represented by a mere decorative service."

The Ministry of Finance

NOTICE is hereby given to the public that on the 16th of February, 1921, this Ministry entrusted the Banque Industrielle de Chine to negotiate on our behalf 25 Treasury Bills, each bearing a face value of Francs 1,000,000, due on the 31st January, 1923. Up to the present these Treasury Bills have not yet been disposed of and no proceeds have been paid to this Ministry. It is hereby declared that this Ministry has cancelled the above Treasury Bills which are now null and void.
Peking, 23rd July, 1921. 40345

The Ministry of Finance
In the Matter of Registration of Transfer or Loss of Treasury Bills

NOTICE is hereby given to the public that the Treasury Bills or Promissory Notes issued from time to time by this Ministry in the Chinese or foreign language to the various institutions, banks or foreign firms are of numerous kinds, and it frequently happens that complications arise owing to loss or transfer of such documents by the original holders. Such a state of affairs is detrimental to the circulation of Treasury Bills as well as being injurious to Government credit.

In the Second Year of the Republic (1913), Regulations governing the Registration of Transfer or Loss of Official Salary Treasury Bills were enforced and found to be of great convenience to the holders. Similar Regulations are now to be enforced in regard to all other kinds of Treasury Bills or Promissory Notes, as follows:

(1) In the case of making a transfer of Treasury Bills or Promissory Notes, other than bearer documents, wherein the name of the Payee is specified, the original Payee himself must apply to this Ministry for sanction of the transfer, and such transfer shall become valid only after it has been duly sanctioned by this Ministry. This Ministry will not recognize as valid any transfer made in any other way. In the case of loss of Treasury Bills or Promissory Notes, the original Payee shall report the case to this Ministry and this Ministry will take such action as required by the circumstances.

(2) Unmatured bearer Treasury Bills or Promissory Notes shall not be used to meet payments due to the Government. No application for replacement of lost bearer Treasury Bills or Promissory Notes will be considered.

The above Regulations are enforced for the purpose of protecting the interests of the original holders and facilitating the work of this Ministry in dealing with such matters.

Egyptian Belle, 8,000 Years Old, In London

Remarkably Perfect Mummy In London College Museum Attracts Attention

London, June 11.—Beauty which has endured for 8,000 years on the face of a girl is one of the remarkable features of a mummy that has been brought to England from Egypt and is now in the Egyptology section of the University College, London.

It is estimated by Dr. W. M. Flinder Petrie, who brought the mummy to England, that this Egyptian belle lived before the days of the pyramids, thousands of years before, in fact, in a later prehistoric age about which we know very little. After 8,000 years the skin of this girl's face is still wonderfully preserved, and so is her black hair. Her features were so fine and regular that even now they are not displeasing.

"The Egyptians have left definite accounts of their history back to 5500 B. C.," said Dr. Petrie, "and there were two whole civilisations before that, adding another 3,000 years. I have found remains very much older than this mummy, but they have been skeletons. She belongs to the later prehistoric age."

SHANGHAI, AUGUST 17, 1921

WEATHER

Fine and hot weather. Unsteady breezes and local calms along the coast of China. The typhoon of the Pacific travelling towards N-W, threatens to pass between the Loochoos and Kiu-Siu and to reach the Yellow Sea. Stormy weather to the south of Japan and the east of the Loochoos.

Japan's Latest Discourtesy

HOW long, we ask, how long is the traveling public to endure the insufferable delays and inconveniences attendant upon the ingrowing imagination of Japanese officiousness?

Japan's latest imposition upon the unfortunate people of Shanghai, who are forced to use her shores and ports of call, is the re-establishment of the hateful and inhuman cholera quarantine detention, as shown by the following message received by the Nippon Yusen Kaisha:

"Passengers from Shanghai for disembarkation at steamer's first port of call will be detained in the quarantine detention house at the port of destination for at least one day and one night after arrival, until completion of the microscopical examination, and will have to pay all quarantine expenses, such as meals, etc., throughout this stay, which charges—as shown under—are to be paid in advance at Shanghai: Passengers for Nagasaki: Yen. 6.15 for European passengers (all classes). Passengers for Moji: Yen. 3 for first and second class.

Excess expenses—if any—will be collected at destination."

Reports of the Shanghai Health Office show there is no cholera, no choleraic symptoms, not even a prevailing sickness in this port. Shanghai people would be the first to recognise the justice of a quarantine were there the least shadow of reason for its imposition.

The height of precaution certainly indicates the depths of folly. For Japan to detain first class passengers 24 hours in a fumigation house, and submit them to the many indecencies which Japanese microscopic inspection involves, is the antipode of wisdom for a nation which clamors so loudly for universal esteem and love as does Japan.

But this act is the crowning insult of a long series of wrongs heaped upon travelers to Japanese shores. Those who have endured the silly rigors of Japanese medical and customs officiousness at Dairen and Tsingtao, not to mention her home ports, know the ripening dangers of a little knowledge. Japan has gone to school with western nations, and from them has learned something about control of cholera and other diseases. But the most valuable lesson she seems to have completely skipped, which is the practicable one of common sense.

And she wonders why her goods are boycotted, why she is losing those admiring friends who cheered her on during the war with Russia, and why there are not more fools in the world to fill her ships and hotels.

If Japan would be popular let her look to the bond of comfort for her visitors; at present, her rank discourtesy far outweighs all arguments in her favor. It will soon be the case that no one will go to Japan except on urgent business.

RHYMES OF THE TIMES

Smuts puts it down in black and white
That one of his opinions
Is what is good enough, and right,
For Britain's wide dominions,
Is good enough for Erin's Isle.
'Tis quite a sane solution—
It ought to see
An Ireland free
When put in execution.

PAYING THROUGH THE NOSE

When we have to pay for an article at a cost far exceeding its proper value, as we have to do for 'furniture to be taken over,' we use the term "Paying through the nose." This expression, which is used in Holland as well as in England, dates back to the time of the Scandinavian war god Odin (or Woden).

Odin put a tax on the nose of every Swede. If unable, or unwilling, to pay—this feature was removed.

It used to be the custom to count noses instead of taking a show of hands, but that has quite disappeared now. One notices in China that when many children refer to themselves they point to their noses.

EUGENE FIELD'S DREAM

Eugene Field, the American poet, was a great practical joker, and his wife needed every ounce of her patience to put up with him. No one realised this better than the poet, and, as proving the great endurance of his wife, he used to tell of a dream he once had.

"I thought," said Field, "that I had died and gone to Heaven. I had some difficulty in getting past St. Peter, who regard me with doubt and suspicion, and examined my records closely, but finally permitted me to enter the pearly gates.

"As I walked up the street of the heavenly city I saw a venerable old man with long grey hair and a flowing beard. His benignant face encouraged me to address him.

"'I have just arrived and I am entirely unacquainted,' I said, 'may I ask your name?' 'My name' he replied, 'is Job.' 'Indeed,' I replied, 'are you that Job we are taught to revere as the most patient man in the world?'

"'The same,' he said, with a shadow of hesitation; 'I did have quite a reputation for patience once, but I hear that there is now a woman on earth—in Chicago—who has suffered more than I ever did, and yet endured it with great resignation.'

"'Why,' said I, 'that is curious. I am just from earth and from Chicago, and I do not remember to have heard of her case. What is her name?'

"'Mrs. Eugene Field,' was the reply.'"

Beach Combers Going Afield

BY ELLIOTT I. OSGOOD

They are amongst the poor—and sodden—and in Shanghai you always have them with you. They wander in the Public Gardens usually waiting until the shadows have fallen before striking you for the price of a night's lodging—or a drink. About the streets they also wander, and woe to the unlucky man from up country whose face reveals any sympathy for the down and outs.

Up country we have China's millions some rich and many very poor. With these all we have learned how to deal. Now and then, however, a beach comber is seized with wanderlust and then the play begins. They do not necessarily keep to the beaten roads of rail and steam but they instinctively strike the cities in which some missionary or other foreigner has his headquarters. Whether it is the instinct of man to seek out his kind or whether it is through the gentle directing of the Chinese along his aimless route which leads him to us we do not know.

We think, however, it was pure love of adventure which a few years ago led a small group of these gentry to refuse the plan of Foochow consuls who wished to ship them out of China, and strike for the back country. They probably did not know how "back" the country was. Nevertheless they kept to the trail with no money and no interpreter, finally landing in Kiukiang. In clothing and cleanliness they were somewhat the worse for wear, but their long abstinence from foreign whiskey had put them into the finest physical shape they had been for years. The Kiukiang consul promptly made contract with a Japanese vessel and shipped them Chinese passage for Shanghai. So they had to subsist a couple of days longer on rice.

Most of these who go afield to recuperate from the too frequent Shanghai whiskey and sodas, follow the line of least resistence and work the railroads. Upon reaching a city in which they are informed reside foreigners, they disembark and humbly but boldly beg at the doors of the foreign residents. One such was given food and bed by a group of young men who had an extra bed in their mess. Everything went well, until they happened upon him on the Chinese street and found him in a brawl with the shopkeepers who objected to the free way in which he was helping himself to their wines. Then he was conducted to the station and the conductor given a ticket to ship the man back to Shanghai. Wonder if he really arrived?

Another was one who had deserted from his war vessel while it was at anchor in Tsingtao Bay. He probably reached Shanghai in due season. When he passed our city all foreigners happened to be out of town. He could make nothing out of our house servants whose supply of English was as limited as his coin. They took him to the hospital where he had better success in being understood, but no better as to finances. "Were your foreigners here they shurely would pass out a fiver." The hospital assistants gave him a bed, some Chinese chow and then piloted him to the railroad station where the agent kindly gave him free pass on to Pukow.

One of the most successful in wringing aid out of foreigners did Nanking not so long ago. He was sufficiently well dressed to gain a room at the hotels. He passed himself off as an army officer. He was such a fine entertainer with his wealth of adventures that when dress suits were necessary he could borrow. Even bank books were superfluous when the pockets of others were so easy to tap. He was "all things to all men." With those whose tastes ran to bridge and a whiskey and soda he was pleased to be of the company. Was it prayer services and Sunday meetings that others preferred he showed a lively interest in all that was being done in a spiritual way for the Chinese.

With a group of admiring missionaries he sat enjoying a musicale to the full—until, so ungenerously, another person at the same entertainment and who was unaware of the presence of this gentleman, rose and told of the doings of the guest at other points in the city, warning those present not to be too free in "entertaining angels unawares." The gentleman in question quietly excused himself, gently slipped away from the throng and a few other things slipped with him. Later we heard he was working Peking.

One of the most methodical of these gentry was one who away back in the days of the monarchy wandered up through our country. Before starting on his crusade he thoughtfully armed himself with a passport, a supply of cod liver oil and a "boy" Jim. They shipped by river steamer as far as Wuhu. Then, deserting the usual route of foreigners, they struck for an inferior walled city. It was in the days before telegraphs. Official messages were sent by couriers on horseback. Every yamen kept a supply of these horses. Magistrates at that time were afraid to oppose a foreigner; it was too soon after the Boxer troubles. This gentleman made use of these courier horses to convey himself and Jim from city to city.

When arriving at a new city he would at once proceed to the yamen where he would present his passport and demand lodging and supper. The magistrate would hustle himself, for he was not used to having such exalted visitors. After supper Jim would wrap up a couple of bottles of cod liver oil in red paper and present them to the magistrate with the guest's compliments, then request horses and traveling expenses, usually about $40 for their next day's journey to another hsien city. The magistrate could do nothing else but fork over, glad to be rid of such a guest at even this price. The next morning the horses would be waiting and the magistrate with true Chinese politeness would bow them away from his yamen.

We remember quite well when this gentleman struck our city. Our servants happened to be at the gate when he and Jim passed on their way to the yamen. Foreigners visiting the interior were scarce in those days and we naturally rushed out to give him a welcome. He stopped and returned our greeting very nicely. He explained that his business necessitated his stopping at the yamen but he would be pleased to take supper with us. All foreigners were welcome to our homes. We certainly did not want a white skin to pass through our district without accepting our hospitality.

He came and ate and entertained. He told us of inventions being made in his father's shops which would revolutionise the world of industry. He was traveling over China expecting to tap resources which would transform the nation. He had traveled the unknown deserts of interior Australia and discovered rivers there which lost themselves in the sands. Where the waters went no one knew; but sailors would tell you of certain places half way between Java and Australia where they could let down their buckets and draw perfectly fresh water from the ocean.

It was later that we found out about the cod liver oil and the travel money—also that it was being repeated in all the hsien cities about us. A kind friend of the Chinese nation got word to the consul in Shanghai and the man lost is passport and his privilege of traveling in the interior. Possibly in other fields he is now telling of marvelous discoveries he made in interior China, but we doubt if he will ever rank with Marco Polo in history.

Using Sweets At Home

How To Utilise Them Properly

BY LORETTO C. LYNCH
(An Acknowledged authority on All Matters Relating To Household Economy)

If the family is served with sufficient nutritious food at home, they will not constantly crave the sweets outside. It has long been known that instead of a mere delicacy to satisfy the palate, sugar is a real food. It gives the body energy.

To eat so highly concentrated a food as candy in large quantity, and especially to eat it before a meal, is a dietetic error.

The average city dweller, for various reasons, finds it impossible to make ice cream at home. It is, however, one of the ways of introducing more milk into the diet. And so, we often call upon the candy shop for ice cream. It is more economical to carry the ice cream home and serve it for dessert than to eat it at the shop. A pint of ice cream taken home will serve eight with dessert. It is well to own an ice cream scoop. This makes the cream into delightful balls.

One hostess, who, by the way, does not know very much about cooking, is always regarded a good cook because of her desserts. Yet she often buys at the candy shop the main part of the dessert and by a touch of individuality here and there makes a most attractive, elaborate looking dish.

From a pint of chocolate ice cream she scooped eight balls. In the top of a double boiler she melted a dozen marshmallows. She added a tablespoon or two of milk to thin the marshmallows a bit. At serving time she put a generous spoonful of melted marshmallow over each ball of chocolate ice cream and showered the top with chopped nuts. Two walnuts chopped will be sufficient for eight portions.

At other times she surprised us with ice cream cake. The high class tea shop gets forty cents a portion for this concoction. It may be made at home at the cost of a few cents. For eight portions, a two-layer cake, a pint of vanilla ice cream and two dozen shelled pecans and quarter of a pound of fudge is used.

The cake is divided into eight portions. Just before serving time the ice cream is placed between the layers, the fudge, hot and melted, is poured over each and the half nuts are used to garnish.

Have your sweets, but use them only at the end of a meal.

Stories Of The Famous

In the Cornhill Miss Masson gives a letter from her mother written to her father giving a pen-picture of Thomas Carlyle in his last years:

"We got there at one o'clock, and spent an hour with Carlyle. He looked a perfect picture of golden old age, in a gray gown, in his beautiful drawingroom, among the well-arranged antiquities and pictures, and with the rose of health on his dear old face.

"When we said goodbye he kissed us both twice over—lifting up our veils—and his last words were 'God bless you—and all good be with you!' It was a rare pleasure for us both. . . ."

"One leads where many follow."

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

Garrett P. Serviss's Article

Replying To Question By Spe ctator At A "Flea Circus," He Shows How Lower 'Animals' Ratiocinative Faculty Is Encouraged

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

Here is a letter that in a moment of foolishness I threw into the waste paper basket and then, at a quick return of thought, fished out again:

"Have you ever seen or heard of a flea circus? Several friends of mine saw one in Milwaukee about ten years ago, and I saw one in Chicago about five years ago. I have had several arguments with friends regarding this circus and they claim it is impossible.

"This circus consisted of five or six fleas that did acrobatic stunts, such as balancing, throwing a ball, dancing, pulling a miniature carriage, walking a tight rope and other novel stunts.

"These fleas were placed on a table which was covered with a white sheet of paper. The man that had these fleas had a very small miniature whip that he would hit on the paper when he would want them to do any of these stunts.

"He also had a name for each one of these fleas and spoke to them in German.

"I have seen all these things myself, so I know what I am talking about."

SCOFFERS CONFOUNDED

There are two sorts of people who seem to take offense at stories of what is called "the intelligence of animals." The first are those who resent any suggestion of a resemblance between man, the special and only favorite of the Creator, and creatures that don't write or read books, and that don't know enough to manufacture poisonous and explosive gases for the purpose of burning and blowing one another up.

The second are those who know so much—or think they do—that they possess the secret of animated nature and can explain it all by chemistry and mechanics. The latter, however, are not offended, but rather pleased if the stories can be interpreted as proving that no animal is anything but an automaton governed in all its doings by external stimuli.

I have never seen "a flea circus," or even a single "performing flea," but the testimony that fleas can be trained to behave in ways similar to those described in the letter is, I think, overwhelming.

Of course, the descriptions of spectators of such performances are always, unconsciously, exaggerated. Their sympathetic interest is so lively and their imagination is so thoroughly enlisted in helping out their eyesight that they overlook, or mask, the imperfections of the exhibition, just as the excited fancy of a boy magnifies an elephant or lends wings to a queen of the circus.

IMAGINATION HELPS

Almost any kind of movement will pass for "dancing" if the master of ceremonies with sufficient suggestiveness of voice and manner calls it that, and crawling along a string may seem to be "walking a tight rope." I have sat beside an enthusiastic person in a theater and seen trained dogs "dance" to music at the command of their master. And when I have turned to my companion and said: "That isn't dancing at all; there isn't the slightest suggestion of keeping time with either the music or with one another's movements" the reply has been: "Why, yes, it is good dancing, just as good as you see at a ball."

The last clause is probably only too true in many cases; nevertheless on such occasions the imagination of the onlooker greatly helps out the performer, and often makes him appear to do things that he doesn't do. Phineas T. Barnum was eternally right in his judgment of the tendency of human beings to help fool themselves, and to go more than half way in doing it.

However, as already said, there is convincing evidence that fleas, as well as other animals, can be trained to do "stunts." (The use of that word ought to be confined to performances of this character.)

The only interesting question is, do the fleas act consciously and knowingly, or is it merely reflex action like the rebound of a ball, or the turning of a heliotrope toward the sunlight? In other words, is there even the slightest glimmering in the flea of what in ourselves we call intelligence?

IS MEMORY EXERTED?

Many investigators have concluded that the faculty of memory, at any rate, is called into play. Dr. James Weir in his "Dawn of Reason" goes further. He says:

"There are many people alive today, probably, who saw the trained fleas which were on exhibition in the large cities of the United States some thirty or forty years ago." (The book was written about twenty years ago.) "These little creatures had been taught to perform military evolutions, to dance, to draw miniature carts, to feign death, etc., at the command of their owner and trainer.

"The mere fact that they possessed memory enough to learn, retain and remember their lessons is not proof positive of reason, but the fact of their having restrained their natural tendency and desire to escape when they could so easily gratify such a desire or tendency, is a potent factor in an argument for their possession of the ratiocinative faculty.

"Their teacher explained that he 'brought them to reason' by keeping them first in a glass vessel where they jumped and bumped their heads to no purpose against the transparent walls of their prison. Thus their vaulting ambition was held in check and they learned to reason from cause to effect."

The last sentence above is not convincing, but, on the other hand, the "researchers," who think that everything in heaven and earth can be represented by a "graph," are equally unconvincing when they sneer at all interpretations other than their own.

TEXACO CRATER COMPOUND

The Great Gear Lubricant

Texaco Crater Compound is a special lubricant for heavy gears and wire rope. It preserves gears; shields them from dust and dirt, prevents friction, and eliminates machinery noise. Use "Crater" on all heavy gears working under conditions of extreme pressure. It clings to gear teeth when nothing else will, but is fluid enough to allow free lubrication.

As a preservative for wire rope and chains, Texaco Crater Compound is invaluable. It forms a film of lubricant which protects from the action of weather, chemical fumes and contaminated water.

Wire rope and chains coated with "Crater" will last twice as long.

Gears lubricated with it will work noiselessly and more efficiently.

30-Year-Old Auto On Champs Elysees

Paris, June 18.—The fashionable Champs Elysees rubbed its eyes the other day when the grandfather of all motor cars, a thirty-year-old Panhard belonging to Abbe Gavois of Rainneville, puffed its way asthmatically under the Arc de Triomphe and headed down hill toward the Place de la Concorde, driven by the Abbe himself. The car made fully six miles an hour on its way to Paris, and had neither a blowout nor a breakdown. The former couldn't well happen, because the tires were solid rubber.

This car will be sold at auction for the benefit of the Picardy Relief Fund.
